ELON MUSK'S STARLINK GETS INDIA LICENCE FOR BROADBAND INTERNET

Elon Musk's Starlink has bagged a licence for satellite internet services, a milestone towards launching commercial operations in India

LICENCE HOURS AFTER TRUMP-MUSK SPAT

Starlink is the third company after Eutelsat OneWeb and Jio Satellite Communications to get a licence from the Dept of Telecommunications to provide satellite internet services in the country. A fourth applicant, Amazon's Kuiper, is still waiting for approvals. Notably, the licence came hours after an ugly, public spat between Musk and Donald Trump | P16

Double delight: RBI cuts repo by 50 bps, CRR 1%

Signals pause in rate cut cycle for the time being; releases ₹2.5L cr into banking system

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has 'frontloaded' the dose of relief for borrowers. On Friday, the central bank's rate-setting panel surprised the Street with a 50 basis point cut in the repo rate—the benchmark lending rate—to 5.5% against the expectation of a 25 basis point reduction. The panel also shifted its policy stance from 'accommodative' to 'neutral', signalling an end of rate cut cycle for now. With Friday's cut, RBI has lowered the repo rate by a cumulative 100 basis points (bps) in 2025.

To ease liquidity conditions, RBI also announced a 100 bps cut in the cash reserve ratio (CRR) from 4% to 3%, to be implemented in four tranches starting September 6. This is expected to release ₹2.5 lakh crore into the banking system.

Speaking to the media, RBI Governor Sanjay Malhotra said the move was aimed at ensuring policy certainty. He said RBI could have done the rate cut in tranches, but it wanted to give a sense of certainty to the market with a 50 bps cut.

Malhotra said the Monetary Policy Committee's decision was taken in view of durable disinflation and the need to boost private consumption and investment. "Inflation has softened, with headline CPI falling to 3.2% in April—below the 4% target," he said. "We now project inflation for FY26 at 3.7%, down from our earlier forecast of 4%."

MPC will carefully assess data to chart out future course of monetary policy

Sanjay Malhotra, RBI guv

On reverting to the 'neutral' stance from 'accommodative', he clarified this change indicates a "very limited space" for further monetary policy action. A neutral stance will mean rates in future can go either way.

"It will depend on how the data comes in. If growth is weaker, it can mean it will go down. If growth is good, inflation is going up, the repo rate can go up," he said.

Meanwhile, real GDP growth for FY26 has been retained at 6.5%, with Q1 projected at 6.5% and Q2 at 6.7%. The governor said the domestic economy remains resilient, supported by several positive factors. P16

● ALL 4 WERE FLYING TO MUMBAI ● 2 MORE FIRs REGISTERED AGAINST RCB, DNA ENTERTAINMENT, KSCA

RCB MARKETING HEAD, THREE FROM DNA ARRESTED AT KIA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FOUR persons, including the marketing head of the RCB franchise, were arrested at the Kempegowda International Airport in a joint operation by the Central Crime Branch (CCB) and Cubbon Park police when they were reportedly flying to Mumbai. Their arrest was in connection with the death of 11 persons in a stampede outside the M Chinnaswamy Stadium during the IPL title triumph celebration of RCB on Wednesday.

Nikhil Sosale, the marketing head of RCB franchise, DNA Entertainment Networks Pvt Ltd director and vice-president Sunil Mathew, manager Kiran Kumar and Sumanth, working in the ticketing section, were arrested while they were allegedly trying to escape.

The arrests were made in the early hours of Friday after the Cubbon Park police registered three FIRs, including a suo motu FIR, against the RCB franchise, DNA Entertainment Networks and Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) Administrative Committee.

The FIRs were based on complaints, accusing them of being responsible for the deaths of 11 people in the stampede at different gates of the Chinnaswamy Stadium.

All the four arrested were reportedly flying to Mumbai. After the arrest, they were taken to Bowring Hospital for medical tests at 11.05 am on Friday. They were produced before a local court in the evening and were remanded in judicial custody till June 19.

The police searched the houses of KSCA Administrative Committee office-bearers in the early hours of Friday.

Searches were also conducted at the house of DNA Entertainment Networks founder and managing director Dr T Venkat Vardhan, who is also the grandson of former Chief Minister Kengal Hanumanthaiah, on Thursday night.

SIDDU, SHIVAKUMAR SHOULD GO, SAY BJP, JDS P4

Siddu's political secretary Govindaraju removed

Senior Congress leader and MLC K Govindaraju was on Friday removed as political secretary to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah with immediate effect following the death of 11 people in the stampede during the victory celebrations of Royal Challengers Bengaluru at Chinnaswamy Stadium on Wednesday. The notification on Govindaraju's removal was issued by the undersecretary (protocol), Department of Personnel and Administrative Reform (DPAR). The notification stated that the MLC was appointed to the post on June 1, 2023 and he will be relieved with immediate effect. The decision was taken on Siddaramaiah's directions, sources said. This comes a day after five senior police officials, including Bengaluru Police Commissioner B Dayanand, were suspended for not taking action to prevent the stampede. Earlier in the day, Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy alleged that Govindaraju put pressure on Siddaramaiah to hold the RCB event at Vidhana Soudha. ENS

State intel chief Nimbalkar shunted out

The state government on Friday shunted out chief of the state intelligence wing, ADGP Hemant Nimbalkar following allegations that intelligence failure was the reason for the stampede. Nimbalkar has been posted as ADGP, Commissioner, Department of Information and Public Relations, Bengaluru.

Cops proposed city-wide rally, but state govt junked plan

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

A full city victory parade covering major stretches of Bengaluru - from Vidhana Soudha to MG Road and beyond - was originally suggested by the city police to mark RCB's IPL win. The idea was to keep the team moving through different areas so fans could celebrate from the roadsides instead of overcrowding and flooding one location but this suggestion was flatly rejected by the organisers and the state government, despite warnings of the chaos it could lead to.

Via multiple informed sources, TNIE learnt that the police had reportedly said no to holding a grand event at such a short notice as the police force had spent the night on the ground till 4 am controlling heavy celebrations in the central business district on Tuesday, June 3, after the RCB win and were stretched thin. The police had also assessed the public mood after the trophy win and communicated to the organisers that massive turnout is certain and that crowd control would require careful preparation.

The organisers also failed to provide details of how exactly they are planning the event, expected crowd size and how exactly passes would be distributed, a police official said, adding that most of the details were verbally communicated as it was done in a hurried manner.

The police also mentioned that they didn't have the time to arrange even the barricades which they usually source from private event managers. P7

Op Sindoor will haunt Pakistan forever, says Modi in J&K

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR & FAYAZ WANI @ Katra / Srinagar

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday lit into Pakistan, accusing the 'unfortunate neighbour' of conspiring to derail the economy and empowerment of Jammu and Kashmir through the brutal terror attack in Pahalgam on April 22.

"Pakistan attacked both insaniyat (humanity) and Kashmiriyat (Kashmir's social harmony) in Pahalgam. It wanted to spark communal riots in India and rob Kashmiris of their livelihood," Modi said in his first visit to J&K after the April 22 terror attack.

His comments came while addressing a rally after inaugurating the world's highest single-arch rail bridge over the Chenab river, India's first cable-stayed Anji bridge, and flagging off Vande Bharat trains to mark the completion of the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla railway link that providies direct train connectivity to the Kashmir Valley.

In all, Modi inaugurated development projects worth ₹46,000 crore for the region.

"On the night of May 6, doom was let loose on Pakistan's terrorists," Modi said, adding that Pakistan will be reminded of its shameful defeat whenever it hears the name Operation Sindoor. "The edifice of terror that Pakistan built over the years was reduced to rubble in minutes. Development and peace of J&K is the Modi guarantee which nothing can hamper," he said.

He also lauded the people of Jammu and Kashmir for standing firm against terrorism. Reaffirming the Centre's commitment to J&K's all-round development, he said improved railway connectivity would transform the region with all-weather connectivity.

Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah, who was present on the occasion, praised the successful completion of the rail link—a feat he said even the British attempted but failed.He also used the occasion to reiterate his demand for restoration of statehood to J&K.

CARNEY INVITES MODI TO ATTEND G7 SUMMIT

New Delhi: IN a major signal of improving ties between India and Canada following erosion of diplomatic relations under former Canadian PM Justin Trudeau, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday confirmed his participation in the G7 Summit, to be held in Kananaskis, Alberta, from June 15–17. Modi said he looks forward to meeting the newly elected Canadian PM Mark Carney. He posted on X: "Glad to receive a call from Prime Minister @MarkJCarney of Canada. Congratulated him on his recent election victory and thanked him for the invitation to the G7 Summit in Kananaskis later this month. As vibrant democracies bound by deep people-to-people ties, India and Canada will work together with renewed vigour, guided by mutual respect and shared interests. Look forward to our meeting at the Summit."

Pre-feasibility study on to divert Chenab water

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

INDIA has launched a pre-feasibility study for the construction of the Chenab-Ravi-Beas-Sutlej link canal project aimed at diverting water from the Chenab currently flowing into Pakistan under the currently inactive Indus Water Treaty (IWT).

The project proposes to channel 15-20 million acre-feet (MAF) of water from the Chenab to Indian states of Punjab, Haryana, and Rajasthan, as part of a broader effort to strengthen domestic water infrastructure and assert greater control over Indus basin resources. The move follows the effective suspension of the Indus Waters Treaty under which India was permitted to use 20% of the basin's water.

Additionally, a team has begun assessing the existing canal structures across Jammu, Punjab, Haryana, and Rajasthan. An officer involved in planning the study at the Ministry of Jal Shakti stated, "We need to evaluate if the water diverted from the Chenab through these canals is being delivered in proper condition and determine investment required for restructuring the canal system."

India is also fast-tracking several new storage and run-of-river projects to support these initiatives. Under the IWT, India was allowed to use up to 20% of the water for non-consumptive purposes, and plans to demand permission to use up to 40% of the water in case of renegotiations, an officer said.

ADGP NIMBALKAR SHUNTED OUT FOR INTEL FAILURE

Bengaluru: A day after the suspension of five police officers, including B Dayananda, who was city police commissioner, the state government on Friday shunted out chief of the state intelligence wing, Additional Director General of Police (ADGP) Hemant Nimbalkar following allegations that intelligence failure was the reason for the stampede in which 11 people lost their lives.
Nimbalkar has been posted as ADGP, Commissioner, Department of Information and Public Relations, Bengaluru, the post he was holding concurrent charge of, after he was posted as Intelligence department chief in September last year. He has been replaced by ADGP S Ravi, who was home secretary. KV Sharath Chandra has been posted as ADGP and principal secretary to the government, and will hold concurrent charge as Chairman and MD of Karnataka State Police Housing and Infrastructure Development Corporation Limited, Bengaluru.
ADGP, Law & Order, R Hithendra, has been given additional charge of the post of ADGP, Traffic and Road Safety, while S Murugan, who is ADGP, Communication, Logistics and Modernisation, is placed in concurrent charge of the post of ADGP, Recruitment, which was held by Sharath Chandra.
Meanwhile, Additional Commissioner of Police (Crime) Dr Chandragupta has also been given additional charge as Additional Commissioner of Police (West) division following the suspension of Vikash Kumar Vikash, and DCP (Crime 1) Hakay Akshay Machindra has been given additional charge as DCP (Central) division after the suspension of Shekhar H Tekkannavar. ENS

KSCA CHALLENGES FIR IN HC, BLAMES GOVT FOR TRAGEDY

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) stated before the Karnataka High Court, in its petition challenging the First Information Report (FIR) registered against its office bearers, that celebrating the RCB victory was, in fact, the call of the State Government as it felicitated the players at Vidhana Soudha in the presence of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and several cabinet ministers with all the secretariat and police higher-ups being present.

The KSCA contended that the KSCA and M/s DNA met the Chief Minister and sought his support and blessings for the event and a program was organised on the steps of Vidhana Soudha. The Chief Secretary was guiding the event and the Government supported the event. The management of the gates of the Chinnaswamy stadium is the responsibility of RCB franchise, M/s DNA, who executes under the direction of the police, the KSCA claimed.

The KSCA further stated that the incident was an accident due to sudden rush and surge and no intention of motive can be attributed, particularly to the petitioners, because the gate management and crowd management was not the responsibility of KSCA and it was of RCB, the organiser and the police.

The KSCA Managing Committee only handles the venue of Chinnaswamy Stadium on rentals and it controls the cricket in Karnataka. It does not deal with the audience and spectators or fans. The order of suspension of police officers clearly blames the failure of the police department and, in turn, the police cannot victimise the petitioners for none of their faults. Now, the very complainant is suspended for dereliction of duties. However, the Chief Minister has issued a dictum for the arrest of the petitioners which is not their domain, the KSCA stated in its petition. "There is absolutely no wrong that can be attributed to the petitioner committee or its office bearers as they stand aloof of any liabilities against the entire unfortunate incident. Despite having shown gratitude by extending independent compensation from its side, the KSCA and its office bearers are put to undeserved misery by way of naming them as accused of the offences", the KSCA narrated in the petition.

STADIUM stampede

Meanwhile, Justice SR Krishna Kumar passed the interim order restraining the city police from taking coercive action against three office bearers of the KSCA in connection with the FIR registered against them over 11 deaths owing to the stampede at Chinnaswamy stadium. However, the court imposed the conditions that the interim order is subjected to the conditions that they should cooperate with the investigation or inquiry and should not leave the jurisdiction of the court. The court also issued notice to the city police.

This was after hearing the petition filed by the Managing Committee of KSCA, including the three accused office bearers of KSCA, questioning the legality of the FIR registered against them by the Cubbon Park police on the ground that M/s DNA and KSCA had not properly organised the event, resulting in stampede.

The accused are Raghuram Bhat, president, A Shankar, secretary and ES Jairam, treasurer of the KSCA. Their counsel argued that multiple FIRs have been registered on the same incident which is not permissible in law and hence all further proceedings are illegal, arbitrary and liable to be quashed.

Further hearing was adjourned to June 16.

Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh arrives at his office on Friday

New top cop takes charge at midnight

Bengaluru: Seemant Kumar Singh, a 1996-batch IPS officer, took charge as the 39th police commissioner of Bengaluru in the early hours of Friday around 12.30 am. There was no baton handing over due to the suspension of the incumbent police commissioner B Dayananda. "I'm taking charge in the odd hours on instructions from the chief minister, home minister and chief secretary. All the previous commissioners have worked exceptionally well and I will continue their work," Singh said after taking charge at midnight. On Friday morning, Singh received the guard of honour and had a meeting with all the senior IPS officers posted in the commissionerate. He later spoke to the media and said that the city police are doing good work and he is confident that they will continue doing the same under his leadership. "No policemen will face any problem if they work properly," he said. On the stampede the commissioner said, "After taking charge in the night I went on night rounds and inspected the spot. A few of them have been arrested in the night. Details will be provided after the complete probe." ENS

RCB marketing honcho moves HC over arrest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court will pass an order on the petition filed by Nikhil Sosale, marketing and revenue head of Royal Challengers Sports Private Limited, questioning his arrest by city police on Friday.

He claimed he was hurriedly arrested in the morning, with a pre-judged and motivated approach, based only on the directive of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for the "immediate arrest" of executives of RCB, without even a perfunctory investigation.

Justice SR Krishna Kumar adjourned the hearing to June 9 to enable the state police to file objections, if any, after hearing arguments of the counsel for the petitioner and prosecution.

Advocate-General K Shashikiran Shetty submitted that the arrest was made by the Station House Officer of Ashok Nagar, who is in-charge of Cubbon Park police station. The accused was arrested at 4.30am Friday at Kempegowda International Airport when attempting to abscond from the country, he argued.

The counsels for Sosale submitted that his arrest was illegal as the FIR was registered by the police inspector of Cubbon Park, who has been suspended by the state government, that too based on the directions of the government.

The FIR cannot be registered without there being any materials. The in-charge police officer cannot arrest the accused and hence the arrest is illegal, the counsels argued.

It was contended that it is clear from the timing of the petitioner's arrest, which is the result of an oral directive of the chief minister to arrest various RCB officials — that too, without any investigation -- that the petitioner's arrest is motivated and an attempt to shift the blame of the tragedy to RCSPL and its officials.

It was also stated that the state government had ordered an inquiry to establish facts leading up to the tragedy. It is a matter of record that this investigation is ongoing and yet to be completed.

As such, the facts of how the incident occurred are not yet determined by any competent authority. In these circumstances, the hurried arrest of the petitioner is wholly illegal, arbitrary, and contrary to all known cannons of law.

WHO IS SOSALE?

NIKHIL Sosale, the head of marketing and revenue at Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), who was arrested by Bengaluru Police on Friday in connection with the stampede, is known to share a close personal bond with RCB's star player Virat Kohli and his wife and actor Anushka Sharma. Sosale, who has held his role at RCB for two years and is employed with Diageo India — the parent company of United Spirits Limited, which owns the RCB franchise — has long been part of the team's core management and public face. Following his arrest at the Kempegowda International Airport, several social media users highlighted his connections with the high-profile couple, sharing photos and past posts that show Sosale and his wife, Malvika Nayak, attending both formal events and private gatherings with Kohli and Anushka. Sosale's private Instagram account, followed by both Virat and Anushka, has 637 followers. His wife, Malvika, was frequently seen sitting with Anushka Sharma during RCB's matches in the recently concluded IPL 2025 season. Their relationship dates back several years, with a 2018 photo showing Malvika celebrating '10 years of RCB' alongside Anushka, Virat, and cricketer KL Rahul. Sosale was also often seen with other RCB players like Faf du Plessis and Glenn Maxwell. According to his LinkedIn profile, Sosale holds a Double Major in Business from James Cook University, Australia, and has played a significant role in shaping RCB's business and marketing strategy.

Head constable protests suspension of Dayananda

Bengaluru: Head constable Narasimharaju, attached to Madiwala police station, protested against the government's action of suspending B Dayananda. He went to Raj Bhavan to file a petition against the government's action and protested in front of Raj Bhavan by holding a photo of Dr BR Ambedkar, with a black ribbon around his right arm. He urged the authorities to cancel the suspension orders of the police officers. Vidhana Soudha police took him into custody. Following the protest, BJP Karnataka tweeted that when the police themselves rebel against the Congress government, with a photo of Dr BR Ambedkar, it is not just a protest. It is a clear statement of no confidence. The very protectors of law are now standing against the Congress government for the massive letdown of the police force. Congress uses the Constitution as a photo prop. They neither respect it nor understand it. ENS

Two more FIRs registered against RCB, DNA, others

Bengaluru: The Cubbon Park police, investigating the horrific stampede at M Chinnaswamy stadium that killed 11 persons on Wednesday, registered two more FIRs against RCB franchise, DNA Entertainment Networks and Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) Administrative Committee, on Thursday, after taking up a suo motu case on the same day. Till now, three FIRs have been registered over the incident. RCB Franchise is named accused number 1, DNA Entertainment accused number 2 and KSCA Administrative Committee accused number 3. The FIRs were registered based on the complaints filed by the injured Rolan Gomes (25) of Mallasandra in Kengeri and a designer at a private company in RR Nagar, and C Venu, 21, a resident of Vijinapura. ENS

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

07th June: Today's key Saturnine alignment is very cautious, encouraging people who are shy, reserved and reluctant to reveal their feelings. On the other hand, exhibitionists and people who love showing off may find that discreet but sometimes insurmountable obstacles are placed in their path.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Whatever the rights or wrongs of a current personal dispute, both you and partners should realise that the causes lie in the past, and that the future should be approached with an open mind. This is easier said than done, of course, but you can still try your best!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may sit down, talk to partners and listen very carefully to people who may have different ideas and a fresher perspective than you. You should accept criticism, no matter how much it may hurt your pride. After all, even you can be wrong sometimes!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There is plenty of room for extra effort. If you are to safeguard your material security, you should work as hard as possible. In other words, there's no point in hoping that something will turn up! It is also a useful moment to get your physical condition into shape, by the way.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Your tendency today will be to believe that only fresh creations are worthwhile, but don't throw out the baby with the bath water. You may swing into action socially, and make plans to test out your skills as a hostess or host. Your generous gestures will be repaid in full.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Home affairs and family commitments may consume most of your emotional energy, so you may have little enthusiasm left for romantic adventures or leisure activities which excite you. There's a little extra tension at work; there might be sharp words, but don't take them too personally.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Short trips are in order, which is convenient, but a psychological reading of your chart reveals that what is most important is dialogue and discussion, so take great efforts to make yourself understood. An exchange of ideas could even set you off on an entirely new course.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Financial issues are about to shoot up the agenda, so stay on your guard, and don't make rash commitments. Also, don't make the mistake of underestimating or under-valuing people who need your sympathy and support. You need to keep potential allies on your side.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You seem to have the upper hand today, even though this may come as something of a surprise. Please don't waste too much time wondering about what you should do next, but throw yourself in with gusto. At the very least you will learn from your mistakes!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
There is so much secrecy around, and you may be keeping certain feelings close to your chest. Partners may be equally reluctant to come into the open, but then there is no reason why they should - is there? Devote a little time to a charitable activity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Your social stars are good, if a little intense. The heaviest astrological pull is towards home and family life, but it may be a good idea either to get out and mix, or to invite other people around. A new acquaintance may provide just the tonic you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's an ambitious moment, and even leisure activities should be designed to attract prestige and respect. If family matters are on the agenda it could be parental connections which pre-occupy you, rather than responsibilities for children. Perhaps ghosts from the past still need to be laid to rest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Passions run high, and it's an adventurous moment. Overseas travel could be an attractive option, as could the thought of improving yourself through study. A side issue concerns legal matters, so keep an eye on your rights. But, above all, you need to make your own voice heard above the collective clamour.

SC CANCELS BAIL TO CONG MLA KULKARNI

Ex-minister ordered to surrender within 1 week

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@New Delhi

IN a major setback to Congress MLA and former Minister Vinay Kulkarni in a case related to the murder of a BJP worker -- Yogeshgouda Goudar -- in 2016, the Supreme Court's two-judge vacation bench on Friday inits order cancelled his bail granted to him.

Directing Kulkarni to surrender within one week before the concerned trial court, a two-judge vacation bench of the top court, led by Justice Sanjay Karol and Justice Satish Chandra Sharma, allowed a plea filed by the CBI -- the probe agency in the case -- seeking cancellation of his bail.

Vinay Kulkarni

The top court cancelled Kulkarni's bail, after finding that he and another accused had tried to contact and influence witnesses in violation of conditions imposed upon them, while being granted bail.

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), through Additional Solicitor General (ASG) S V Raju, alleged Kulkarni and another accused tried to influence; and attempted to contact some prosecution witnesses more particularly the one identified as Nagappa Bairagonde. "We thereby seek immediate cancellation of Kulkarni-s bail," Raju argued. The CBI moved the top court challenging the trial court's April 25, 2024 order which cancelled the bail granted accused Chandrashekhar Indi alias Chandu Mama but declined to pass such an order against Kulkarni as he was allowed to be released on bail by the Supreme Court on August 11, 2021.

As per the CBI, BJP worker Goudar, 26, a member of district Panchayat, was brutally hacked to death on June 15, 2016 at his gym in Saptapur in Dharwad after being immobilised with chilli powder, thrown on his face. The CBI claimed that Kulkarni, who was district in charge minister at the relevant time, did not want Goudar to grow as a leader in Dharwad and hired contract killers to eliminate him. Senior advocates Maninder Singh, and Sidharth Luthra, appearing for Kulkarni, opposed the bail cancellation plea of CBI, and claimed that no condition imposed upon him has been violated.

The operation was led by K Rajasekhar, Scientist-D & Joint Director, and Piyush Kumar Gupta, Scientist-B & Assistant Director, from the BIS Bangalore Branch Office, a press release said.

FULL-TIME OFFICER

Some pace now? Rlys calls for K-Ride MD post applications

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

AFTER a long gap to speed up completion of the Suburban Rail project, Indian Railways has put out an advertisement, calling for applications for the post of Managing Director of Rail Infrastructure Development Company (Karnataka) Limited (K-Ride).

Experts and officials in K-Ride said this is a welcome and much-needed move to pace up the project. The Railways has listed details of the post which is for a duration of three years.

According to K-Ride sources, the only time the department had a full time managing director was in 2021, when Amit Garg held the post. After that, many IAS officers have been posted, holding concurrent charge. "With Railways inviting applications, it shows the push. But this is also late -- when the foundation for the project was laid in June 2022 by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, he had assured its completion in 40 months, and the term ends in October 2025. However, the MD's official posting will take at least another two months as the last date to submit applications for the post is July 5, 2025," the source said.

The government has listed out criteria details for the post: The applicant should not be above 55 years of age as on March 31, 2025. The applicant should have a minimum of 25 years experience of which at least five years should be in Senior Administrative Grade. The applicant should also have five years experience or more in planning/ design/ execution of railway-related infrastructure projects.

The criterion also stated: "It is desirable to have the experience of projects report preparation, sanction, resource mobilization and coordination with other ministers and stake holders." Experts also pointed out that the state and central governments have not taken serious note of the need to execute the project. The long delays have only made Bengaluru's traffic management worse. Raj Duggar, from Citizens for Citizens, a resident welfare group, said the call for filing the MD post reflects that issues between the State and Union governments have been sorted out. "The appointment process must be expedited and work on all four corridors of the suburban rail project and two track doubling projects being carried out by K-Ride must be taken up on a war footing as only 10 per cent of the work has been completed.

"The Suburban Rail is designed to become the third public transport mode of Bengaluru, as an economical, fast, comfortable, eco-friendly, safe and reliable option," he added.

Experts also demanded that South Western Railways give swift permission for extension of the corridors to the nearby towns of Tumakuru, Kunigal, Magadi, Ramanagara, Anekal, Bangarpet, Chikkaballapura and Doddaballapura. They said this will facilitate commuters and also help develop these towns.

Opposition says event in front of Vidhana Soudha was more like family affair of both leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BJP and JDS on Friday sought the resignation of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar, blaming them responsible for the tragedy during the RCB victory celebrations in Bengaluru.

Addressing a joint press conference here, Union minister and JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy, and BJP state president BY Vijayendra and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka alleged that probes by the CID, magistrate and a commission headed by a retired judge will not reveal the truth.

Kumaraswamy alleged that the government did not take the suggestions given by the police seriously and in turn, suspended five senior officers. He questioned the need for three probes. "The government ordered three probes as it is answerable to the high court," he said.

On the suspension of police officers, Kumaraswamy said it was just for name sake. They will be reinstated after some time. The CM and the DCM are responsible for the tragedy. Their craze for power and publicity resulted in the tragedy, he alleged.

Kumaraswamy demanded that the Congress high command sack Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar. Both have to pay for the tragedy," he said, adding that the victory celebration by the government at Vidhana Soudha was more like a family affair of both the leaders.

Vijayendra said the government has now made the RCB, KSCA and an event management company as accused in the stampede case. But in reality, the CM, DCM and the home minister are Accused No 1, A2 and A3.

When the event management company approached Cubbon Park police for permission for celebrations at Chinnaswamy Stadium, they denied it and it is on paper. Then why did Shivakumar go to the stadium? This has to be answered. The CM, DCM and the HM should resign on moral grounds, he said.

Ashoka said why were prohibitory orders under Section 144 not imposed around the stadium when the government knew that a large number of people would go there? The government will bury this case as it has done with regard to MUDA and Valmiki corporation scams. "With the government being an accused, it can't order probes by its authorities. Only a sitting judge or CBI can probe the case," he said.

BJP POLITICISING IT: CM

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said on Friday that the BJP is now politicising the tragedy during the RCB victory celebrations in the city. "The BJP is politicising it, but I will not," the CM said, responding to the saffron party's allegation that some police officers have been made scapegoats for the state government's "mistakes". Rubbishing this allegation, the CM said action has been taken against the officers, who prima facie. failed to discharge their duties effectively.

'Govt trying to wash hands of tragedy'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

UNION minister Pralhad Joshi launched a scathing attack on the Congress government over the tragic stampede at M Chinnaswamy Stadium that claimed the lives of 11 RCB fans.

Speaking to the media during his visit to the BJP office here on Friday, Joshi accused the government of shirking responsibility by suspending police officials, instead of owning up to administrative failure. "This government is trying to wash its hands of the tragedy by suspending capable officers, blaming them for lapses, while the real responsibility lies with the chief minister and deputy chief minister," Joshi said.

He questioned the permission for the felicitation event held on the steps of the Vidhana Soudha, asking, "Did the ministers and their families take permission before attending the event and clicking selfies?"

Referring to Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, Joshi mocked his behaviour at the stadium, saying he posed like an RCB coach and orchestrated the entire celebration. "This is not just insensitive and irresponsible, it is a clear attempt to escape accountability," Joshi alleged.

He also drew parallels with previous controversies, including the MUDA scam and the Valmiki Corporation scam, where government action only followed judicial intervention. "Even in those cases, the government tried to protect its own till courts intervened," he said.

Highlighting a post on X by Siddaramaiah, inviting fans to join the celebration, Joshi asked, "Why did the CM issue an open call for people to gather? This was a calculated political move for credit and popularity, which ultimately led to the tragedy."

Joshi accused the government of exploiting the win for political mileage, saying, "In their obsession for selfies and limelight, 11 innocent lives were lost. The chief minister and his deputy must take the responsibility."

Congress picks four nominees for Council

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE Congress has announced the party's four nominees for the State Legislative Council.

They are: Dinesh Amin Mattu, media advisor to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah; Arathi Krishna, deputy chairperson, Karnataka NRI Forum; Ramesh Babu, chairman, the party media cell; and Sagar, Dalit leader.

The names were cleared by the party high command. They would be sworn-in after getting the assent of governor.

With their swearing-in, Congress will have 37 members in the 75-member House, the same as the BJP-JDS combine.

All eyes are now on the independent, Lakhan Jarkiholi, brother of minister Satish Jarkiholi. Lakhan's vote could shatter or solidify the balance of power in the House. If the Congress wins him over, the party will seize both the chairman and deputy chairman posts, currently held by the BJP.

It was Lakhan's brother, Ramesh Jarkiholi, who toppled the Congress coalition by defecting to the BJP. Ramesh might yet convince Lakhan to back the BJP-JDS alliance, ensuring status quo.

There has been a precedent of having a person from another party as chairman of the Upper House. When Ramakrishna Hegde was the CM, Congress member Rehman Khan was chairman for about two years.

If the Congress does get Lakhan's vote, the question is who will become chairman and deputy chairman.

Veteran BK Hariprasad was once seen as a frontrunner. Now he has been elevated as the party general secretary for Haryana. There is no clarity on what his next role could be.

Minister Bose Raju, Chief Whip Saleem Ahmed and former minister Nasir Ahmed could emerge as choices, as sources say the party would assign roles according to its priorities.

High-level delegation from steel ministry visits Bhadravathi plant

RAMACHANDRA V GUNARI
@ Shivamogga

"PRODUCTION of specialty and quality steel for defence and aerospace industries, which the government is trying to promote, is our focus. We will examine whether such production is possible at Bhadravathi too. We are looking for all options and we will decide based on the feasibility study, like what is being done today (Friday)," said Sandeep Poundrik, steel secretary, to the central government, here on Friday.

Before leaving for Visvesvaraya Iron and Steel Ltd (VISL) plant, Poundrik told TNIE at the Shivamogga airport, "We are here to see what can be done at the plant. We will visit the plant, review and discuss with officers before taking a decision." Asked what it could cost to revive the plant, he said, "There is no such estimate right now. We will first study what can be done and how it can be done. After that we will decide on investment."

On the revival of Salem Steel Plant, another sick unit of Steel Authority of India Ltd (SAIL), he said, "We visited Salem on Thursday. It is working below capacity. We have asked them to use full capacity which is around 0.35 million tonne. Once they do it, we will explore the option of expanding the plant."

A high-level delegation from the steel ministry visited the VISL plant after Kumaraswamy announced that it would be revived at an investment of Rs 8,000-10,000 crore. Apart from Poundrik, the delegation had Abhijith Narendra, Joint Secretary, Ministry of Steel, Government of India; Amarendu Prakash, Chairman and Managing Director, SAIL, and M R Gupta, Director (Technical), SAIL. The team visited the primary mill, SMS, forge plant, machine shop and blast furnace. The VISL management made a detailed presentation to the team.

Members of the VISL Workers' Association (VISLWA) submitted a memorandum to the Steel Secretary and SAIL CMD. They proposed a 2.5 MTPA steel plant at the VISL site, utilising the available land and infrastructure. They requested SAIL authorities to get environment clearance for 150 acres of forest land to mine iron ore, and to get 140 hectares cleared at NEB Range in Sandur for mining which is currently under litigation at the Delhi High Court.

Cabinet meeting on Nandi Hills on June 19

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state government has officially announced that its 13th cabinet meeting of 2025 will be held at the picturesque "Mayura Hall" at Nandi Hills in Chikkaballapur on June 19.

Ahead of the meeting, Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh, District in-charge minister MC Sudhakar and senior officials will inspect the venue. Authorities are also considering erecting tents — similar to those used during the Male Mahadeshwara Hills session — if Mayura Hall is unsuitable.

Sources said the bus carrying CM Siddaramaiah and ministers cannot directly reach the hall, requiring a fleet of smaller vehicles to ferry them. Officials are working on lunch arrangements, as the meeting is expected to stretch into the afternoon. They are also concerned about crowd control if local residents from nearby areas visit the place. Nandi Hills has recently seen extensive renovations, including upgrades to infrastructure originally built for the 1986 SAARC Summit. Public works officials are addressing issues flagged by local engineers to ensure the venue is fully prepared.

Earlier this week, TNIE reported that the cabinet would convene at Nandi Hills on June 19. Offsite cabinet sessions like this often emphasise local development issues. For this meeting, key topics include the timeline for bringing water from the Yettinahole project to Kolar and Chikkaballapur.

Report on communal deaths in DK out next week

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

DR Syed Naseer Hussain, president of KPCC's Fact-finding Committee and AICC general secretary, on Friday said an interim report about reasons into cases of violence, murders, communal polarisation, and riots in Dakshina Kannada will be submitted to the state government the following week.

Addressing a press conference, Hussain said, "This committee has been formed by DCM DK Shivakumar and we have been instructed to work towards reestablishing peace in a sensitive district like Dakshina Kannada. Despite being a culturally vibrant district, which is also called a medical and educational hub, cases of violence and communal polarisation are repeatedly taking place. We have met auto drivers, labourers, civil society, businesses, religious leaders from different communities, and officials at the district administration and collected information about reasons for murders and communal riots in Dakshina Kannada. We will submit an interim report based on their observations on June 9 or 10 to the state government, including Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Law Minister HK Patil and Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara," he said.

He further said that students are cancelling admissions, and investors are hesitating to invest here due to repeated incidents of violence. "There should be no place for violence. Law implementing agencies must enforce law," he added.

VR Sudarshan of the committee said that recent cases of violence and murders are given a communal colour. "Miscreants and anti-societal elements who are just 2% in the district are disrupting peace, while 8% of the population are trying to get political mileage out of it. But 90% of the people here have no role in it and are living in communal harmony. We have made some observations based on inputs from various stakeholders, but we are yet to finalise the report. Initially, we would submit an interim report to the government. We will also visit Udupi, Uttara Kannada and once again visit Dakshina Kannada and collect further details before finalising the report," he said.

Member of the committee Jayaprakash Hegde said that when he was minister during 1994-97, there were no such violent incidents. "Elected representatives must discuss development, instead of creating confusion in the society," he added.

MY TAKE

KILLER STAMPEDE: ANTICIPATION, TOP WEAPON TO KEEP DEATH AWAY

NIRAD MUDUR
Deputy Resident Editor, Karnataka
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

TWENTY-six men were killed in Baisaran Meadows near Pahalgam in Jammu & Kashmir on April 22, 2025. They were killed by terrorists, most of them on being asked which community they belonged to, and selectively targeted on being given an answer that weighed in favour of pulling the trigger. Terror killed these men.

Forty-three days later, on June 4, 2025, eleven young lives – those of four women, five men and two minors, a girl aged 14 and a boy aged 17 – were snuffed out when massive crowds, estimated to be about 2.5 lakh to 3 lakh, converged on Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru, trying to gain entry into the premises to be a part of the celebrations planned by Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), which won the Indian Premier League (IPL) 2025 title for the first time in its 18th edition. Stampede killed them.

It may not be fair to compare the two, but what is common in these two horrific incidents is 'Death'. And both these incidents have evoked intense shock and anger – the first, leading to targeting terror bases in Pakistan as part of "Operation Sindoor", ahead of a "mini-war" with the neighbouring country – understood to be a major terror-sponsor – lasting three days; and the second, in which action is still unfolding with leaders in the state government, the opposition, the police, RCB, Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) and DNA Entertainment Ltd, the event organizers, locked in a blame-game with no clue yet where the case is heading until an impartial, thorough probe does justice.

Blame is another common factor when such deaths occur; when life is cut short in its prime; when we desperately start looking out for those responsible for the deaths; when we hunt high and low for what caused the deaths; and when it gets us to hurriedly fix the blame on someone or the other in an attempt to come out clean.

But all these are post-catastrophe scenarios, a kind of reactive exercise that, any which way you see it, will not get the dead back among their loved ones.

There is yet another thing that is common between the Pahalgam terror attack and the Chinnaswamy Stadium killer stampede: both lacked a sense of anticipation that it could happen, and conspicuous by their absence were the necessary measures to avoid or stave off the deaths. Both the incidents involved people going to the respective fateful venues for a thrill of very different kinds from each other. One was targeted by terror, the other by a stampede – the former clearly allowing blame to be fixed on the elements responsible, but the latter leaving one and all perplexed about who or what caused it.

The important part that needs to be stressed here is that death must not be treated with a label stuck on it after it claims people – "terror-related" deaths, "stampede-related" deaths, "road accident-related" deaths, "pandemic-related" deaths, "crime-related" deaths, "suicide-related" deaths, and so on. When "death" itself is common in all the factors posing a threat of cessation of life, measures need to be taken appropriately to fight that common enemy called "death" with a solitary aim: enhancing life in all its glory by keeping death away! The main weapon in this war against death is "anticipation based on logic", which enables us to gauge possible death-attracting scenarios and put in place measures to keep death out of reach. The lack of anticipation based on logical thinking was the main ingredient in the killer stampede that has left multiple families grieving for their loved ones who never returned home alive from it, and never will.

Death lurks everywhere. An over-speeding driver is thrilled by the speeds he is touching, never bothering about being on the brink of death with one little mistake, nor is a wheelie-addicted two-wheeler rider. The families and honeymooners who went as tourists to Pahalgam never realized what they were stepping into, nor did the lakhs of people, mostly youngsters, who gathered near Chinnaswamy Stadium to spend a few hours celebrating the victory with their favourite triumphant team, while failing to realize the possibility of a stampede – a thing that failed on the state government, the police and the city administration, too.

Daniel Handler, American author and television producer, using the pen name Lemony Snicket, writes in his 2007 wit and wisdom quotation book Horseradish: Bitter Truths You Can't Avoid, "It is a curious thing, the death of a loved one. We all know that our time in this world is limited, and that eventually all of us will end up underneath some sheet, never to wake up. And yet it is always a surprise when it happens to someone we know."

But we can keep death away for longer and longer, and to begin with, anticipation will help.

A New Era in Backward Class Welfare

A SPACE MARKETING INITIATIVE

Historic Allocation of Rs. 1,600 Crore for Welfare Corporations

The Department of Backward Classes Welfare in Karnataka oversees ten public sector corporations dedicated to the welfare and development of backward classes. These corporations have historically played a crucial role in addressing socio-economic disparities, but their impact was often limited by insufficient funding and lack of strategic direction.

Under the current leadership of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, and with Minister Shivaraj S. Tangadagi at the helm of the Department of Backward Classes Welfare, there has been a marked shift in approach. Unlike previous administrations that may have only paid lip service to these institutions, the present government has demonstrated a strong commitment to their success.

Record-Breaking Funding

Minister Tangadagi has secured an unprecedented allocation of Rs. 1,091 crore over two years specifically for these corporations. This funding is not just a numerical increase but represents a strategic investment aimed at empowering key schemes, especially those under the D. Devaraj Urs Backward Classes Development Corporation and other similar bodies.

The total historic allocation (possibly including other welfare schemes or multi-year plans) is reported as Rs. 1,600 crore, highlighting the government's commitment to socio-economic upliftment.

Impact and Achievements

Empowerment of Schemes: The increased funding has enabled the implementation of robust schemes that directly benefit traditionally marginalised communities.

Programme Implementation: Over 3,500 developmental programmes have been executed in just two years, demonstrating a high level of activity and commitment.

Execution Rate: The 25% execution rate (which could refer to the proportion of targeted programmes completed or some other metric—clarification may be needed) is considered a significant achievement, reflecting efficient use of resources and focused action.

Inclusion and Mainstreaming: The initiatives have helped bring traditionally excluded communities into the mainstream, fostering greater social equity and opportunity.

Strategic Support

The success of these efforts is attributed not only to funding but also to the strategic support provided by the government. The leadership's visionary outlook and commitment to social justice have created an enabling environment for these corporations to thrive.

The historic allocation of Rs. 1,600 crore (with Rs. 1,091 crore specifically for the backward classes corporations over two years) marks a turning point in the state's approach to welfare and social justice. It reflects a genuine commitment to empowering marginalised communities and ensuring their inclusion in the state's developmental journey.

Transparency in Hostels: Information Now at Fingertips, Thanks to Minister's Visionary Efforts

> "Having come from poverty myself, I've lived the hostel experience. I know what hostel food is like. That's why ensuring the highest quality of food in our hostels is my top priority. To fulfill this, we've revamped the entire food supply system and launched the Nilaya Portal to bring in total transparency."
>
> — Shivraj S. Thangadagi, Minister for Kannada & Culture and Welfare of Backward Classes

How many underprivileged children dream of education, yet find their aspirations stunted by the stark absence of basic amenities? For thousands of such children, government-run hostels remain their only beacon of hope. Managing such an expansive network of hostels is a herculean task in itself.

But Minister Shivraj S. Thangadagi, having risen from the very soil of poverty and hostel life, assumed charge of the department with firsthand understanding—and what followed has been nothing short of exemplary. From the moment he took office, his focus on bringing transparency and systemic reform into hostel administration has set a new benchmark in governance.

Through his relentless drive, Minister Thangadagi has succeeded in ushering in a fully digitized administrative framework that prioritizes efficiency and oversight. Under his department, a total of 2,597 hostels—comprising 1,284 pre-matric and 1,162 post-matric institutions—are now operational. These hostels currently accommodate 66,413 pre-matric and 1,18,415 post-matric students across Karnataka.

A new digital application has been developed to ensure seamless management of these hostels. With this software in place, long-standing complaints about substandard food and lack of basic infrastructure are expected to diminish significantly.

Mandatory Meal Uploads for Quality Assurance

To ensure that the meals served adhere to the prescribed menu, hostels are now required to upload photographs of prepared meals daily via the software. This ensures real-time monitoring of food quality. Additionally, the software allows for comprehensive documentation of daily cleanliness and the amenities provided to students—making transparency an operational norm.

Key Allocations and Progress in 2024–25

Scheme	Grant (Rs Cr)	Beneficiaries
Student Stipend (Pre-Matric)	81.20	49,080
Post-Matric Scholarship	122.87	84,588
Vidyasiri Scheme	49.55	32,984
Hostel Facility (Yearly Intake)	474.87	2.5 lakh+ students

Highlights of the New Digital Platform

This sophisticated software integrates hostel data from all 31 districts of the state, covering everything from food supply vendors and hostel staff to asset registers, libraries, and account management. The platform enables online admissions, attendance tracking, and student movement logs. Even the demand for food supplies is communicated directly to vendors via the portal. If students have grievances regarding the quality of food, they can file complaints directly through the app—fostering accountability at every level.

A transformational reform, driven by empathy and enabled by technology, is quietly reshaping hostel life in Karnataka—where hope now comes with accountability, and dignity is served alongside every meal.

A Lifeline Beneath the Soil

How 15,000 Borewells Revitalised Karnataka's Backward Class Farmers

Farmers have long been celebrated as the backbone of India's economy, but many continue to face harsh realities—especially when it comes to access to water for irrigation. For countless small and marginal farmers, particularly from the backward classes, the absence of dependable irrigation can mean the difference between a good harvest and financial despair.

Recognising this critical gap, the Ganga Kalyana Scheme was launched under the Department of Backward Classes Welfare with a clear and urgent objective: to empower eligible farmers by providing financial assistance for drilling borewells. The scheme was designed to improve irrigation, boost agricultural productivity, and ultimately support rural livelihoods. Yet, for years, the scheme remained bogged down by administrative inertia.

Under the previous administration, not a single borewell was drilled in three years. Technical roadblocks, bureaucratic delays, and inadequate financial support rendered the scheme virtually ineffective. Farmers were left to fend for themselves, with only Rs. 2 lakh provided per borewell unit—barely enough to cover rising drilling costs. The rest had to be paid by the farmers, many of whom simply could not afford it. The result: minimal implementation and maximum hardship.

The turning point came when Minister Shivaraj Thangadgi assumed leadership of the Backward Classes Welfare Department. Within months, he identified and tackled the bottlenecks that had crippled the scheme. His approach was refreshingly hands-on. He conducted regular reviews, convened high-level meetings with department officials and corporation managers, and made it clear that this scheme was not just another line item in the budget—it was a lifeline for thousands of struggling farmers.

One of his first key decisions was to revise the financial assistance. The unit cost was increased from Rs. 2 lakh to Rs. 3.5 lakh—a significant enhancement that reduced the out-of-pocket expenses for farmers and made the scheme genuinely accessible. With funding secured and implementation streamlined, the results were swift and staggering.

In just two years, under Minister Thangadgi's stewardship, a record-breaking 15,460 borewells were drilled across Karnataka. This massive effort has directly benefited thousands of farmers, many of whom had never before had reliable access to irrigation. The ripple effects have been immediate—better yields, improved incomes, and renewed confidence in the state's commitment to rural welfare.

This shift is more than just numbers. It marks a philosophical change in governance—moving from promises to delivery, from speeches to soil-level solutions. What was once a dormant scheme has now become a cornerstone of agricultural rejuvenation, thanks to determined leadership and smart policy upgrades.

The Ganga Kalyan scheme's success is not just in the volume of borewells drilled but in the message it sends: that governance can be compassionate, responsive, and rooted in the lived realities of its people. As thousands of farmers now reap the benefits of accessible irrigation, the story of Karnataka's 15,000 borewells stands as a powerful example to what visionary leadership can accomplish in just two years.

Marching Toward a Brighter Future

Sainik Schools and Welfare Hostels Under Minister Shivaraj Thangadgi's Vision

Minister Shivaraj Thangadgi, representing the Kanakagiri assembly constituency in Koppal district, has turned a long-standing vision into reality—establishing sainik pre-selection training schools that offer underprivileged youth a structured path into national service.

Understanding that the armed forces represent not only a career opportunity but also a vehicle for dignity and social mobility, especially for youth from backward and rural communities, Minister Thangadgi set out to create institutions that would bridge aspiration and achievement. Overcoming several hurdles, he led the Backward Classes Welfare Department in launching sainik pre-selection training schools in Kanakagiri and Kalaburagi

These schools, designed with a capacity of 100 candidates per batch, have already trained 1,000 students to date. More than 300 of these trainees have successfully joined the Indian Army and other branches of the armed forces.

> The Backward Classes Welfare Department has allocated a total of Rs 3500 crore in two years (2023-24, 2024-25) and has implemented all the planned programmes at an expected 99 percent. The department has worked hard to bring the backward classes community into the social mainstream in all ways.
>
> - Akram Pasha, Commissioner, Backward Classes Welfare Department

Recognising that access to quality education depends greatly on supportive infrastructure, he turned his attention to another pressing concern—student accommodation.

While the Backward Classes Welfare Department already facilitates hostel accommodation for over 2.5 lakh (250,000) students annually, demand had long outpaced supply.

In response, the Minister secured funding for 150 new post-matric hostels across the state. These hostels have significantly expanded access to residential education for students from marginalised backgrounds.

Together, the sainik training schools and expanded hostel infrastructure mark a decisive step toward inclusive development.

Rock Garden Opens to Commemorate Rayanna's Legacy; Museum Ready for Inauguration

A new cultural landmark now stands in Belagavi district, telling the story of a fearless freedom fighter whose legacy continues to inspire generations. The Rock Garden, developed to narrate the life and valour of Krantiveera Sangolli Rayanna, is now open to the public. Spearheaded by the Sangolli Rayanna Development Authority under the Backward Classes Welfare Department, this ambitious project is part of a broader initiative to transform key heritage sites linked to Rayanna into international tourist destinations.

The project spans Nandagarh in Khanapur taluk—where Rayanna was martyred—and Sangolli village in Bailahongala taluk, his birthplace. Both sites, rich in historical and emotional significance, are being developed with the full support of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who has strongly advocated for preserving and promoting Rayanna's legacy. Minister Shivaraj Thangadgi played a hands-on role in accelerating the project, visiting Nandagarh four times to oversee the progress and ensure timely execution.

Inaugurated by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, the Rock Garden stretches across 10 acres and offers an immersive experience into the life and times of Sangolli Rayanna. From his childhood to his heroic resistance against British colonial rule, the garden presents a visual and narrative journey that captures his unwavering spirit and patriotic sacrifice.

Complementing the Rock Garden is the soon-to-be-inaugurated Krantiveer Sangolli Rayanna Museum (Veerabhoomi). The museum is now fully completed and awaits formal opening. Designed to educate and engage visitors, the museum features a dedicated Sangolli Rayanna Study Center, a library focused on his life and struggle, and a state-of-the-art robotic guide to narrate his history interactively for tourists and students alike.

Together, the Rock Garden and the Museum stand as powerful tributes to one of Karnataka's greatest freedom fighters. They not only preserve a proud chapter of resistance but also aim to inspire future generations with Rayanna's story of courage, sacrifice, and devotion to the motherland.

RAJYA SABHA POLLS

Kamal declares ₹245 cr assets

Value gone up by ₹69 cr compared to 2021 polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

ACTOR-turned politician Kamal Haasan has declared Rs 245.86 crore in movable and immovable assets in his nomination papers filed for the Rajya Sabha polls on Friday. The value of his assets has gone up by Rs 69 crore compared to the value of assets declared in his nomination papers for the 2021 Assembly poll. His overall liability, however, has remained the same at Rs 49 crore over the last four years.

DMK Rajya Sabha candidates --- P Wilson, Rajathi (a) Poet Salma, and SR Sivalingam ---- joined the Makkal Needhi Maiam chief in filing their nomination papers for four RS seats with the assembly additional secretary B Subramaniyam in Chennai. Chief Minister M K Stalin, Deputy CM Udhyanidhi Stalin and leaders of alliance parties were present.

Kamal's income as per his tax returns for 2023-2024 was Rs 78.9 crore, up from Rs 22.1 crore in 2019-2020. Value of his movable assets has gone up to Rs 59.69 crore, a rise of nearly Rs 15 crore from Rs 45.09 crore reported in 2021. The value of his immovable assets stands at Rs 186.16 crore, up from Rs 130 crore declared in 2021. He owns four commercial buildings --- two in Alwarpet, one in Uthandi, and another one in Sholinganallur --- which have a combined approximate market value of Rs 111.1 crore. He also owns agricultural land in Vilpatti village in Dindigul valued at Rs 22.24 crore as per current market rate.

He had also upgraded his BMW 730 LD car purchased in 2015 and Lexus Lx 570 Lanson in 2018 to newer vehicles from the same brand. He has also added a Mercedes Benz to his line-up of luxury cars in four years since 2021.

Kamal Haasan continues to list his profession as an 'artist' and his educational qualification as Class 8 from Sir M Ct. Muthiah Chettiar Boys Higher Secondary School, Purasawalkam.

Advocate P Wilson, in his affidavit, declared movable assets worth Rs12.58 crore and immovable assets with an approximate current market value of Rs 28.08 crore. His spouse had movable assets worth Rs 3.27 crore and immovable assets with current market value of Rs11.72 crore. Both have joint bank loans amounting to Rs.1.15 crore.

SR Sivalingam declared movable assets worth Rs 76.04 lakh and immovable assets worth Rs 58.61 lakh. His spouse has movable assets of Rs 1.30 crore and immovable assets with approximate current market value of Rs 1.64 crore. He has loans amounting to Rs 64.30 lakh and his spouse had loans amounting to Rs 2.05 crore.

TTD issues legal notice to vendors for Tirupati laddu GI tag misuse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

IN a decisive move to safeguard the sanctity and intellectual property of the sacred Tirupati Laddu, the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) has initiated legal action against multiple unauthorised entities found selling or promoting products under the 'Tirupati Laddu' name in violation of its registered Geographical Indication (GI).

Legal notices were issued through Sahadeva Law Chambers to several online platforms and vendors, including PushMyCart (Mahita LLC) and Transact Foods Limited, for unauthorised commercial exploitation of the Tirupati Laddu name, and falsely associating their offerings with the temple.

Tirupati Laddu is a protected GI under the Geographical Indications of Goods (Registration and Protection) Act, 1999. The laddu is exclusively prepared within the Tirumala temple under the supervision of TTD, following a time-honoured and sanctified process. Unauthorised use and sale of the name not only infringe legal rights but also undermine the spiritual sanctity of the offering.

In response, PushMyCart acknowledged receipt of the legal notice, and showing goodwill, suspended the infringing product listings pending legal review. Several other vendors have also taken down their listings following the TTD's proactive outreach.

TTD Executive Officer J Syamala Rao said, "The Tirupati Laddu is not just a product, but a sacred prasadam with deep spiritual and cultural value. We are committed to taking all necessary legal steps to prevent its misuse, and protect the trust of crores of devotees worldwide."

This is among the first instances in India where a temple offering protected under the GI law has been defended through formal legal channels on international platforms. The TTD continues to monitor and act against any such violations to preserve the authenticity and sanctity of Tirupati Laddu.

In coming together, divorcees seek to redefine heartbreak & healing

POOJA NAIR @ Kozhikode

IN a room filled with tea cups, quiet tears, and bursts of unexpected laughter, a group of women, strangers just hours ago, are bound by something deeper than words. They are not here for therapy or legal advice, but for the opportunity to breathe freely, speak without shame, and to remind themselves--and one another--that life after divorce can still be beautiful.

Launched under the banner of Break Free Stories, this unique initiative is the brainchild of 30-year-old Rafiya Afi--a divorcee herself--who transformed her personal pain into a platform for hope. "I thought I was alone in my grief," she recalls. "But when I started sharing my story on social media, I realised hundreds of women were silently suffering, too. That's when the seed for the camp was planted."

What started as a modest WhatsApp group for legal support and emotional sharing has now blossomed into a full-fledged movement. Now, over 100 women across the state--from Kochi to Kozhikode to Thiruvananthapuram--are in talks with Rafiya for the conduct of such gatherings.

The first camp, held recently in Vagamon, welcomed 15 women with different stories but one common thread--the pain of a fractured marriage. Some had finalised their divorces; others were still enduring the slow grind of legal battles. The event offered them something they rarely find: A non-judgmental, all-women circle focused not on what went wrong, but on what could still go right.

"We're not here to cry over the past," Rafiya emphasises. "But to learn to smile again." From self-expression sessions and healing conversations to activities like team cooking, storytelling circles, and light trekking, the camp weaved together wellness and joy in subtle but powerful ways.

"For the first time in years, I laughed without guilt," said a woman from Kozhikode who was part of the maiden camp. "We didn't know each other, but we bonded instantly. There was no awkwardness, no shame. Just connection."

"One of the biggest problems," Rafiya explains, "is that many parents still see divorce as a personal failure."

Rafiya, who was fortunate to have supportive parents herself, is now working to raise awareness among families. "Without your family behind you, recovery is so much harder," she says. Rafiya often speaks at women's forums and parent groups, urging them to shift their perspectives from shame to support.

NZ govt recognises couple for contributions to IT industry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOR the first time, two Indian-origin professionals have been recognised by the New Zealand government for their contributions to the IT industry and the Indian community.

The husband and wife duo, Sunit Prakash and Lalita Kasanji, both dual citizens of New Zealand and Australia, have been appointed Members of the New Zealand Order of Merit. This honour, similar to India's national awards, is given to individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the nation. Since 1995, only around 15 people have received the award for services to IT.

Sunit and Lalita co-founded the New Zealand Centre for Digital Connections with India in 2023, with the aim of building stronger digital and tech ties between the two countries. Their research showed that Indian IT professionals contribute $350 million to New Zealand's economy each year. They also developed support programmes to help this workforce grow and gain recognition.

They found that while Indian IT professionals had deep knowledge, experience, and strong connections in both India and New Zealand, their value was often overlooked. "Sunlight is a powerful disinfectant, and we are bringing a magnifying glass," Sunit Prakash, explaining their efforts to bring visibility to this group, said. The couple also created a well-connected and active professional community of Indian IT experts. Their efforts have now been recognised at the national level.

Sunit Prakash and Lalia Kasanji are dual citizens of Australia and New Zealand

Their work led to a formal recommendation that New Zealand send a Digital and IT Trade Delegation to India. This comes as New Zealand looks to strengthen its trade relationship with India, which is not only one of the fastest-growing economies but also a major source of global tech talent.

Sunit completed his MMS from NMIMS, Bombay University, in 1987 and has worked in Sweden, Australia, and New Zealand. Lalita's family has lived in Wellington since 1912, and she traces her roots to Surat.

REVA University celebrates World Environment Day

Bengaluru: As part of World Environment Day celebrations, REVA University organised a sapling plantation event on its campus. Students from the School of Performing Arts performed a skit on the life of environmental activist Jamuna Tudu, popularly known as "Lady Tarzan." The Department of Agricultural Engineering also conducted a seedball distribution drive to promote reforestation. As part of its outreach efforts, the university carried out plantation drives in five villages, Bandi Kodigehalli, Bandi Kodigehallipalya, Mahadeva Kodigehalli, Singahalli, and Arrebinnamangala. The NCC unit planted 1,000 saplings on Defence Land and 100 saplings at an adopted school.

Govt directed cops to focus on VIP security

MOREOVER, there was no clarity about permissions taken or not from the BBMP.

While the police had not given a green signal for the full celebrations, the decision to go ahead, sources said, was forced by the organisers through the political channels.

As part of the celebrations, three bandobast channels - Vidhana Soudha, HAL airport to Taj West End route and M Chinnaswamy Stadium, were created. However, the government directed the police to focus mainly on VIP security at Vidhana Soudha and along the HAL-Taj West End route, where the Deputy Chief Minister and players were arriving. At the same time, by 11 am, fans started pouring into the stadium - where the police force was minimal.

Even before the police were clearly communicated about the celebrations, fans started swelling the venue after seeing free passes post on RCB's social media and the personnel who were to be part of the security at the stadium were themselves stuck amid the crowd. Sources revealed that even around the stadium, the entire crowd control was left to a group of bouncers. Defending their crowd managing capabilities, the officials pointed out that the same police force had successfully handled massive gatherings.

School teacher cooks up rape story against colleague in T'puram, held

T'Puram: A woman teacher of an aided school in Thiruvananthapuram has been booked for fabricating a sexual abuse story involving a girl student to settle personal scores with another teacher. C R Chandralekha, a Hindi teacher at Raja Ravi Varma Higher Secondary School in Kilimanoor, was booked under the POCSO Act for falsely claiming that the girl, a class 11 student, was raped and impregnated by a male teacher of the school. Chandralekha had been at loggerheads with the male teacher over issues related to the school management. While the student was on leave due to health issues, Chandralekha made up the rape story and circulated it via social media. The girl came to know about the allegation when she rejoined classes. However, the fake story had spread like wildfire, forcing the student to drop out.

K'taka approves establishment of rehab centres for mentally challenged individuals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State government has approved the establishment of rehabilitation centres for mentally challenged individuals across all 31 districts.

These centres will function within district-level hospitals in collaboration with non-governmental organisations (NGOs). The initiative is aimed at supporting vulnerable individuals by providing institutional care, treatment, and rehabilitation in a humane and rights-based manner. The Emergency Care and Recovery Centres (ECRCs) will be established with an allocated grant limit of Rs 6 crore. The centres will specifically cater to homeless and mentally challenged people.

Four districts, Chitradurga, Yadgir, Kolar, and Bidar, have been assigned to the Aaladamara Foundation, which will directly implement and manage the centres in these regions. District-level committees will shortlist applications based on pre-determined criteria.

The shortlisted proposals will be sent to a State Level Selection Committee chaired by a retired High Court judge, which will take the final call on the selection of implementing partners.

WORLD'S TALLEST BRIDGE

First engineer in village force behind Chenab Rail Bridge

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

COMING from Yedugundlapadu, a small village in Andhra Pradesh, where she was the first engineer ever, Professor Madhavi Latha is now among the technical minds behind the Chenab Rail Bridge — the world's tallest railway bridge — inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday.

Madhavi, who hails from a family of farmers, completed her entire schooling in government school. The youngest of four siblings, she had initially dreamt of becoming a doctor. But with limited resources, her parents suggested engineering, which was more affordable through government colleges. Madhavi pursued her BTech from Jawaharlal Nehru Technological University (JNTU), Andhra Pradesh, followed by MTech at NIT Warangal, a PhD from IIT Madras, and a post-doctorate in rock engineering from IISc, where she has been teaching since 2003 and also chairs the Centre for Sustainable Technologies.

Her association with the Chenab Bridge project began in 2005 and lasted until its completion in 2022. Working first with Professor TG Sitharam, former professor at IISc Bangalore and former director at IIT Guwahati who is currently serving as Chairman of the All India Council for Technical Education and later independently, Madhavi served as a rock engineering specialist to Northern Railways through Afcons Limited where she was the consultant. Her role focused on one of the most critical aspects of the bridge — ensuring slope stability and designing geotechnical safety systems for the foundations.

Professor Madhavi Latha

This was vital because the bridge site lies in the Lower Himalayan region, one of the most tectonically active and geologically complex zones in the world. The terrain consists of steep, fractured rock slopes, loose soil, and is prone to frequent seismic activity. The presence of fast-flowing mountain rivers, such as the Chenab, adds further complications — the water has a high erosive force, and the narrow valleys increase the risk of landslides and slope failure.

Constructing a structure of this scale — with a 359-metre-high steel arch — on such terrain required extensive geotechnical planning. Madhavi's work involved detailed analysis of slope conditions, designing stabilisation techniques like rock anchors, bolts, and retaining systems, and ensuring the foundation could resist both gravity and environmental stress.

RBI'S BOLD RATE CUTS SHOULD SPUR PRIVATE SPENDING, INVESTMENT

THE RBI pulled a rabbit out of the hat on Friday. The central bank's rate-setting committee reduced the benchmark repo rate by 50 basis points besides cutting the cash reserve ratio by an unexpected 100 bps, making it the sharpest and boldest policy move since the pandemic. Friday's decision beat both consensus estimates and market expectations. No one imagined Governor Sanjay Malhotra and his team to deploy a double-barrelled gun to stimulate private consumption and investments. As Malhotra noted, the frontloading of monetary easing reflects a clear intent to support growth and, by lowering both the price of money (repo cut) and the quantity of money (CRR cut), the RBI has laid the ground for faster monetary transmission, which is woefully lagging. In short, the move is unabashedly growth-oriented. As a result, India suddenly finds itself in a rare combination of low rates, low income taxes and low food inflation. This should help translate into a high-growth, high-incomes scenario. But will it?

The jumbo rate cuts along with the change in policy stance from accommodative to neutral imply two things—either the rate cut cycle is nearing its end or there will be a long pause before the next reduction. In any case, the market expects paring of another 25-50 bps to take the policy repo rate closer to 5 percent. With a projected inflation of 3.7 percent in 2025-26 (which is also 30 bps below RBI's target of 4 percent for the first time in four years) and repo rate at 5-5.5 percent, the real policy rate stands comfortably above the central bank's preferred zone by 100-150 bps. It's also consistent with India's investment and credit expansion needs, especially in a disinflationary global environment. Strong foreign exchange reserves, steady capital inflows and healthy external accounts—low current deficit and low short-term debt—should provide a buffer against global turbulence.

This is not a business-as-usual monetary policy and the objective is more than simply delivering a rate cut. For, beneath the veneer of being the world's fastest growing large economy, the underlying growth dynamics are rather feeble. Corporate capital expenditure has remained muted, largely due to balance-sheet deleveraging, while private consumption is punching below its weight. So amid the global headwinds, lower rates are an attempt to fortify consumption and investments. The real question is whether the monetary stimulus will revive the economy's animal spirits.

CLEANSE PUBLIC SPHERE OF WANTON TRIPE TALK

KAMAL Haasan finds himself cornered for his statement on language links that he insists was made out of affection. That did not stop a section of social media users from calling it an insult that breached their definition of linguistic decorum. Meanwhile, an IAS officer has drawn criticism for suggesting that students should learn to clean toilets and hostel rooms. A BJP minister faces public ire for remarks against a woman army officer that have been considered Islamophobic. Comedian Kunal Kamra's "gaddar" jibe against a government functionary refuses to leave him in peace. These are the latest instances of prominent figures venting thoughts that are uncalled-for or avoidable in public—inadvertently or with intent—on the one-way communication lanes that characterise today's public sphere.

We have also recently seen comedians, politicians, film stars, activists, and influencers on the wrong side of the law because their social messaging, humour, or satire is deemed discriminatory, divisive, polarising, or outright abusive. The result is a polity overwhelmed by innumerable debates on free speech limits and eroding ethics, and courts overcrowded by the likes of Rahul Gandhi, Prem Shukla and Munawar Faruqui, who insist they are victims of deliberate attempts to misinterpret or twist their comments out of context.

It is time to step back and assess how free-for-all speech, as opposed to free speech, is harming normative societal behaviour and relationships. In our society, social media users and public figures alike weaponise outrage and abuse to promote us-versus-them binaries, and desensitisation is becoming a norm. People with mass bases or holding responsible positions must desist from exploiting the shrill social media noise to float their narratives through false messaging, and by raising identity issues related to religion, caste and gender. The right to free speech gives enough leeway to articulate one's agenda without poisoning language to dominate, dissent or distract. Social media platforms and regulators must understand the sociology of insult, which reveals three primary trends: those outraged by anything, those on the lookout for opportunities to get outraged and those who create outrage. We need to curb their expressions laced with slogans and catchlines to distort meaning and feed mistrust, and fight the gendered structuring of public insult to humiliate and domineer. Language abuse warrants a national de-addiction campaign.

QUICK TAKE

SUPPORTING THE FOREST FORCE

TAMIL Nadu's induction of 1,411 fresh personnel to guard its forests and keep a watch on poachers is welcome. This young cohort, recruited through a targeted drive by the state's public service commission, includes several members of tribal communities with close generational links to forests. Coming three months after the state's decision to raise the wages of anti-poaching watchers, this move sends the right signal of support to the forest force. At a time those who illegally mine in our forests and kill the fauna for profit arm themselves with smart technologies and weapons, the protectors also need to be adequately equipped to face the challenges.

Trump's US has disengaged from several global health platforms. Covid taught us no one is safe until everyone is safe. With diverse threats looming, collective action is an imperative

WHEN DISEASES CROSS BORDERS, SO MUST SOLIDARITY

K SRINATH REDDY

Cardiologist, epidemiologist and public health advocate

SOURAV ROY

EVEN as the US, led by President Donald Trump, withdrew from global health engagements through a petulant exit from the World Health Organization (WHO) and the evisceration of its international aid agency, two events in Geneva on May 19 unfurled the flag of global solidarity.

One, international negotiations on the Pandemic Treaty ended, with all participating WHO members agreeing on the final text. The treaty was cheered by an anxious world badly bruised by Covid's devastation and wary of more zoonotic pandemics on the horizon. It is the second-ever global health treaty to be concluded under auspices of the WHO, after the Framework Convention for Tobacco Control adopted in 2003.

The second was the convening of a forum—Digital Health Without Borders—to advance digital health applications across the world with impact, efficiency and equity. The event, organised by Dr Rajendra Gupta from India, was addressed by WHO's Director General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus and leading digital technology experts as well as prominent representatives from the domains of medicine, nursing and public health. They advocated universal access to impactful digital health technologies to prevent pandemics and promote primary care-led universal health coverage.

These affirmations of a 'one world' approach are reassuring in a polarised political environment where the US and some other countries are retreating from adherence to principles of global solidarity. While the US and Argentina have quit the WHO, western European nations like the Netherlands and Germany have reduced their commitments to global aid. Trump and Musk have eviscerated USAID, which was a major contributor to global health programmes aimed at tackling infectious diseases like HIV-AIDS and tuberculosis, as well as maternal and child health protection. Scientific agencies like the National Institutes of Health have been disconnected from global research.

Global health, as a policy and practice domain, evolved through stages. Initially, colonial powers like Britain and Belgium invested in establishing institutes for 'tropical medicine' to protect their soldiers, traders, administrators and local labourers from infectious diseases like malaria and cholera. After decolonisation, western nations talked of 'international health' while engaging with developing countries.

The HIV-AIDS pandemic triggered a scare and made western nations direct resources for its control across the globe. In this era, aid came with many strings attached. It enabled researchers from high-income countries to design and direct research in other countries, while gaining publications and patents. It provided an opportunity for western funders to mandate use of medical technologies supplied by their companies and impose their 'experts' and consultancy firms. UN agencies such as WHO, UNICEF, UNFPA and UNDP also shaped and supported global health initiatives, but high-income countries often influenced their agendas and actions.

After the adoption of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) by the UN in 2000, funding for international health came not only from government aid agencies but also from rich private foundations like Gates, Rockefeller and Bloomberg, as well as charities like the Wellcome Trust.

Recently, the Novo Foundation has emerged as a major global health funder. Multilateral lenders like the World Bank and continental banks in Asia and Africa support countries with soft loans for strengthening national health programmes. These channels of global health financing continued after adoption of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

High-income western countries have traditionally supported global health programmes, abiding by their commitments to global development assistance and as 'soft diplomacy' instruments to advance their geopolitical and trade interests. Later, China and rich west Asian countries also started supporting global health programmes for similar reasons. Apart from bilateral channels, donor countries have also channelled funds through UN agencies to advance their strategic interests.

Amid this economic and political power play, moral motivation of the global health enterprise dimmed and global solidarity became a shibboleth. In the era of international health, donors posed the question "what can we do for you?" In the era of global health, the question should have been reframed as "what can we do together?"

The world faces many common threats, from pandemics and anti-microbial resistance to climate change and commercial forces propelling the global epidemics of non-communicable diseases and obesity. Global health votaries must utilise both multilateral forums and bilateral channels to address such common threats. Simultaneously, high and upper-middle-income countries must help in strengthening health systems of low and lower-middle-income countries as their frailty will endanger global health security and economic stability.

This was taught by Covid pandemic. "No one is safe till everyone is safe" should not be a vacuous platitude. Access to essential drugs, vaccines and technologies must be universal, while co-investments in development of a multi-layered, multi-skilled health workforce will benefit the whole world.

Espousal of global health by high income countries drew impetus from their evangelical advocacy of economic globalisation as the mantra for global prosperity. While access to global financial and labour markets boosted economic growth around the world, dice were loaded in favour of rich countries. Even as Thomas Friedman exulted that the 'world is flat' due to globalisation, rich countries used restrictive patent protection practices to show that even a flat surface can be tilted in their favour.

But Western enthusiasm for globalisation vanished when non-western economies started growing fast. As countries like China, India, Brazil and South Africa gained economic muscle and unbridled capitalism triggered a financial crisis in the West, fear of becoming 'submerging economies' led western economies to pursue protectionist policies and abandon multilateralism. The 'slash and burn' retreat of western capitalism from globalisation is typified by the Trump administration's assault on global trade and health through tariffs and tirades.

Vast majority of countries are still wedded to global solidarity and multilateralism. Even as countries must develop their economies and health systems with a strong passion for self reliance, they should foster global solidarity. As digital health advances 'sans boundaries' between countries, it will enable big-data studies on a vast array of gene-environmental interactions in different populations and identify frugal, but highly impactful, health system innovations that can help all countries. As the song on a Disney World ride goes, "It is a small world after all". (Views are personal)

ROAD TO JUSTICE FOR BENGALURU XI

ANAND VASU

Sports journalist who has covered tournaments in several countries over 25 years

THEY were just enough to form a cricket team. The youngest was 13 and not a single one of the Bengaluru XI—those who had their lives snatched from them outside the M Chinnaswamy Stadium on Wednesday—was older than 40. They were of the city and beyond, some from other states. Girls, boys, students, dancers, software developers. Some were hardcore fans of the Royal Challengers Bangalore, who had, at long last, won their maiden Indian Premier League title. One did not even care about cricket, but was convinced by friends that a selfie at the venue would be worth the visit.

All of them had one thing in common: they were drawn to a single location to be part of a celebration. It was to be an "I was there" moment.

Not one of them could have imagined that the price to pay would be the ultimate one. When you enlist in the army, go bungee jumping, attempt to climb Mount Everest, or run with the bulls in Pamplona, you know that there is a real chance that death could come close. It's a risk you take knowing what you are getting into.

But when you go to a cricket stadium to feel like you are part of something bigger, to share in the celebration of an achievement that has been nearly two decades in the making, the biggest worry is not the chance you have of returning alive.

To blame any of the victims would be perverse beyond belief, dealing the unkindest of cuts to the families of those who lost their lives. Yet, it is with deepest sadness that it must be recorded that what happened was not the city's 'defect' or a sporting negligence—it was an Indian tragedy. Repeatedly, when crowds gather, for one cause or another, tragedy unfolds; yet, as a collective, we learn nothing.

There is no doubt that the events of Wednesday afternoon have shaken Indian society's consciousness, but not so much that it will act as a deterrent. Not so much that there will be any changes of consequence when it comes to developing infrastructure that can safely handle large crowds, spontaneous surges of people or exuberant gatherings. Not thoroughly enough to force people in power to pause and get to the bottom of why something that should never have happened occurred.

A probe has been ordered, arrests may be made, officials suspended and monetary compensation promised. This is a templated response. You can transpose the name of the team or sport, the venue, or the occasion with a religious gathering, a clamour to board a train—and the story would remain depressingly the same.

They dare not say it aloud, but there will be a few who will look at the episode and think that only 11 people died. In India, it's not a number of fatalities that triggers righteous outrage.

AFP

England's Hillsborough stampede of 1989, where 97 people perished, stayed on the headlines because the victims' families mounted a long, concerted campaign for justice. As the families of the 11 fans who lost their lives while celebrating RCB's win start their own quest, a similar unity seems unlikely

In 2005, at least 258 died in Satara, Maharashtra during a pilgrimage. In 2013, more than 115 were killed in a bridge collapse in over the Godavari in Andhra Pradesh. In 2024, the official count in Hathras, Uttar Pradesh was 121; the trigger was a tent collapse.

In sports, globally, the numbers are equally terrifying: 300 in Peru at a football game in 1964, 93 in Nepal in 1988, and 126 in Ghana in 2001.

In terms of numbers, the Hillsborough tragedy of 1989 where 97 people lost their lives at the FA Cup semi-final between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest in Sheffield is probably the most high-profile, not least because the victims' families banded together to mount a protracted campaign for justice. It took 27 years for the UK courts to charge those responsible

In India, with the judicial system so overburdened that even the simplest of disputes can take decades to resolve, who knows when, if ever, those responsible for the events of Bengaluru 2025 will be brought to book.

"If we are not ready to hold a roadshow, we should not have [it]. As simple as it can get. I know fans do get excited, everyone gets excited; but it's nothing compared to what happened yesterday," Gautam Gambhir, India's head coach, said. "I was never a believer that we need to have roadshows—never. We need to be responsible. We need to be responsible citizens and responsible in every aspect, because every life matters," he said.

He is right, of course, in saying that no single life is worth more than another, and that we the people should be more responsible. But the human mind is such that it rarely lingers long enough to persevere towards a transformation. As individuals and a collective, as a populace and as those who govern, we move on, because if we stopped to actually take stock of each horrific incident, we might lose the will to wake up the next day.

We forget not because we are callous, but because the alternative is too painful. We forgive not because we want to, but because we would otherwise be consumed. The long road to justice for the Bengaluru XI has just begun. What shape it will take, what timeline it will follow, and what price it will extract is impossible to predict.

Only one thing is likely: before there is closure in this case, many more similarly avoidable tragedies may well unfold.

Tharoor says impossible to ignore China in Pak conflict

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

Indian parliamentary delegation led by Congress MP Shashi Tharoor meets with member of the US Senate Homeland Security Committee in Washington DC | PTI

ASSERTING that "China has immense stakes in Pakistan," Congress leader Shashi Tharoor on Friday said that China is an "absolutely impossible factor to ignore" in India's recent conflict with Pakistan.

During an interaction with representatives of think tanks at the Indian Embassy in Washington, the Thiruvanathapuram MP said that a thaw in relations between Delhi and Beijing over the past few months was "seemingly making good progress" before the conflict.

Tharoor, who is leading a multi-party delegation to the US, said, "We are aware that China has immense stakes in Pakistan. China is an absolutely impossible factor to ignore in what has been our confrontation with Pakistan." He said that the single largest project under the Belt and Road Initiative is the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor, adding that 81% of Pakistani defence equipment comes from China. "Defence may be the wrong word here. Offence in many ways," he said.

The veteran Congress noted that after the Galwan Valley clashes in June 2020, "we had actually begun a thaw with China last September which was seemingly making good progress before this tragedy occurred." Tharoor added that then "we saw a very different China" in terms of its practical support for Pakistan, even on the Security Council. "We have no illusions about the challenges in our neighbourhood, but I want to remind you all that India has consistently chosen a path of keeping open channels of communication, even with our adversaries," he said.

"We have tried as much as possible to focus on development, on growth, on trade. Our trade with China is still at record levels. It's not that we are adopting a posture of hostility, but we would be naive not to be aware of these other currents around," he said.

During a conversation at the Council on Foreign Relations earlier in the day, Tharoor was asked about the Chinese military equipment that Pakistan used in the conflict against India and if there is a reassessment over this. "Frankly, the reassessment took place while the fighting was going on," he said.

CHINA AMONG BRICS FORUM CONDEMNS PAHALGAM ATTACK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE 11th BRICS Parliamentary Forum in Brasília endorsed India's call for a unified, zero-tolerance approach to terrorism. In a joint declaration, all 10 member nations unequivocally condemned the terrorist attack in Pahalgam, and pledged coordinated action to combat terror in all its forms.

Leading the Indian delegation, Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla called for urgent collective efforts to choke terror financing, strengthen intelligence-sharing, curb the misuse of emerging technologies, and enhance cross-border cooperation in investigations and judicial processes. His remarks echoed Prime Minister Narendra Modi's firm policy of zero tolerance and strong, proportionate responses to terrorism.

Birla presented India's clear and strong role on various topics, especially global cooperation against terrorism, a just and balanced global order and democratic exchanges.

India's position on counter-terrorism received widespread support and was prominently reflected in the final declaration. The forum acknowledged India's leadership and emphasised that global peace and security require the active engagement of all BRICS member parliaments.

This year's forum marked the first with the expanded BRICS membership, including India, Brazil, Russia, China, South Africa, Iran, the UAE, Egypt, Ethiopia, and Indonesia. Delegations held intensive discussions on key global challenges, reaching consensus on responsible use of Artificial Intelligence, fair global trade, and enhanced inter-parliamentary cooperation.

After Russia claim, Cong says India diplomatically isolated by strong allies

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

SLAMMING the Modi government for its 'failed foreign policy', the Congress on Friday claimed that India has become isolated in global stage and "our all-weather friends are distancing themselves from us".

Congress spokesperson Supriya Shrinate said that the "biggest failure" of the government's foreign policy was its inability to arrange meetings of its delegations sent abroad with heads of states or influential people and asked what the country got out of the exercise.

The Opposition alleged that India is being "insulted" all over the world due to the "failed foreign policy" of the Modi government.

The situation is such that now even Russia also believes that the US mediated a ceasefire, Shrinate said, referring to a claim made by Vladimir Putin's aide that the recent conflict between India and Pakistan figured during a phone call between the Russian president and Trump and that the hostilities were "stopped with the personal participation" of the US president.

"But even today no one knows... why was the ceasefire done? What were the conditions of the ceasefire? Why were the hands of our army tied? The reality is that the silence of the 'surrender' prime minister is screaming that he has done the ceasefire under pressure," Shrinate said.

Before 2014, India had isolated Pakistan and started treating it like a terrorist country, she claimed.

The party's social media department head also claimed that big countries are being seen in India's enemy's camp and Pakistan which "we had completely sidelined is roaming around like a hero today".

"It is getting the opportunity to be represented in global institutions, global institutions are giving it financial aid. Prime Minister Modi did not even glance towards Kashmir in the last 45 days, but today he has reached Kashmir to cut the ribbon," said Shrinate.

SC nod to reschedule NEET-PG exam

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday allowed the National Board of Examinations (NBE) to hold the NEET-PG 2025 examination in a single shift on August 3 instead of in double shifts on June 15. The court found "bona fide" the petitioner's plea filed on June 3 that it needs additional time to implement the SC's May 30 order disallowing a double-shift exam and asking the NBE to hold it in a single shift.

The bench of Justices Prashant Kumar Mishra and Augustine George Masih said, "We are satisfied that the prayer for an extension of time to reschedule the exam on August 3 is bona fide.

Accordingly, the time allowed by our order dated May 30 is extended, and NBE is permitted to hold the exam on August 3, 2025. No further extension shall be granted."

During the Friday hearing, Additional Solicitor General (ASG) KM Nataraj argued that there were practical difficulties in conducting the exam on June 15, including holding high-level meetings, doubling the number of exam centres, and ensuring increased security. Even a small breach in the procedure can affect the exam, he said.

When the court observed that security was in any way to be ensured, the ASG said that while security had to be provided at 450 centres for the original date of June 15, steps needed to be taken to ensure security for nearly 1,000 centres.

The counsel for the NEET candidates, opposing the application of the NBE, stated that TCS cannot delay NEET-PG by citing other exams. The NBE argued that it didn't want the exam to be compromised in any way. "The time is taken only for the benefit of the students," it added.

The court, while disposing of the NBE application, allowed the prayer to hold the exam on August 3 and noted the Intervention Application (IA) had been filed by the NBE seeking to reschedule the exam on August 3, which, according to NBE and its technical partner TCS, is the earliest available date. "We allow it," said the SC in its order.

The NBE plea said, "The infrastructure needed for a single shift for 2,422,679 candidates would require an infrastructure for 2.70 lakh persons across the country, and that requires a considerable amount of time."

The Supreme Court's vacation bench on Friday asked the Jharkhand HC to reconsider the plea of a single parent, a woman judicial officer, challenging the denial of her child care leave request. Anticipatory bail not to be given mechanically: SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

ANTICIPATORY bail in cases involving serious offences should not be given in a mechanical manner, the Supreme Court has said. A three-judge bench of Justices Vikram Nath, Sanjay Karol, and Sandeep Mehta made the observation while setting aside an order of anticipatory bail to four accused persons in a murder case.

Observing that the Patna HC had "clearly failed" to appreciate the gravity and nature of the allegations in the case, the court directed that the accused should surrender within eight weeks. The SC passed the order on hearing an appeal filed by the victim's son challenging the order granting these four persons the anticipatory bail.

"The order of the High Court (Patna) does not disclose any reasoning for granting anticipatory bail in a matter involving serious offences under Sections 302 (Murder) and 307 (Attempt to Murder) of the IPC," said the bench.

Navy to commission INS Arnala at Visakhapatnam dockyard on June 18

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Indian Navy will commission the first of the 16 Anti-Submarine Warfare Shallow Water Craft (ASW-SWC), INS Arnala, at the Naval Dockyard, Visakhapatnam, on June 18.

Eight more ASW-SWC warships are being constructed by Cochin Shipyard Limited, Kochi. The indigenous defence manufacturing augments the anti-submarine warfare capabilities of the navy. The contract for the 16 craft was signed in April 2019.

The Indian Navy on Friday said, "The event marks the formal induction of the first of the sixteen ASW-SWC class ships into the Indian Navy. Designed and constructed by Garden Reach Shipbuilders & Engineers (GRSE), Kolkata, under a Public-Private Partnership (PPP) with Larsen & Toubro (L&T) Shipbuilders, Arnala is a testament to the success of the Aatmanirbhar Bharat (self reliant India) initiative in defence manufacturing."

The induction ceremony will be presided over by General Anil Chauhan, Chief of Defence Staff, and hosted by Vice Adm Rajesh Pendharkar, Flag Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Eastern Naval Command.

Constructed under the guidance of the Directorate of Ship Production and the oversight of the Warship Overseeing Teams in Kolkata and Kattupalli, Arnala was delivered to the Indian Navy on May 8.

Named after the historic Arnala Fort off Vasai, Maharashtra, the warship reflects India's rich maritime heritage. Much like the fort, which stood resiliently against various threats, the ship is designed to have a formidable presence at sea. Its robust construction and advanced capabilities ensure that it can withstand the challenges of the maritime domain, safeguarding India's waters from emerging threats.

The warship incorporates more than 80% indigenous content and integrates advanced systems from leading Indian defence firms, including Bharat Electronics Limited (BEL), L&T, Mahindra Defence, and MEIL.

The project has engaged over 55 Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), promoting domestic industry and generating related economic activity.

The Arnala class of ships will replace the in-service Abhay class ASW Corvettes of the Indian Navy and are designed to undertake anti-submarine operations in coastal waters, Low Intensity Maritime Operations (LIMO) and Mine Laying Operations.

This 77-metre-long warship, with a gross tonnage of over 1490, a maximum speed of 25 knots and endurance of 1800 NM (around 3,300 kms) is the largest Indian Naval warship to be propelled by a Diesel Engine-Waterjet combination.

The navy said Arnala's commissioning "will mark a transformative moment in India's naval capabilities, strengthening coastal defence and reaffiliate India's position as a self-reliant maritime power in the strategically vital Indian Ocean Region".

Process to vacate 18 ministries from Shastri, Nirman Bhavans set in motion

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE process to vacate Shastri Bhawan and Nirman Bhawan — home to at least 18 central ministries — has begun to make way for the construction of Common Central Secretariat (CCS) buildings 4, 5, and 9 under the Central Vista redevelopment project.

According to government sources, ministries and departments housed in these two prominent office blocks have been notified and asked to prepare for relocation by October-November. In the interim, some ministries are expected to temporarily move for about two years to alternate locations, including the General Pool Office Accommodation (GPOA)-2 at Kasturba Gandhi Marg and the NBCC's World Trade Centre complex at Nauroji Nagar.

Meanwhile, to ensure adequate space allocation, the Central Public Works Department has initiated a survey to assess the staff strength of each ministry operating from Shastri Bhawan. "CPWD teams will visit each room in both buildings to conduct a physical survey and determine space requirements," officials said.

Sources further stated that space allocation in the nearly completed CCS buildings 1, 2, and 3 are set to begin within the next 7 to 10 days. Ministries currently operating out of North Block—especially the Finance and Home Ministries—are expected to be the first to move, with full relocation projected by August. The South Block evacuation is expected to follow three to four months later.

The government is also in the process of clubbing smaller ministries to optimize space within the new complexes. Secretaries and senior officials from Shastri Bhawan and Nirman Bhawan may be temporarily relocated to nearby accommodations such as the GPOA at KG Marg. Post-vacation, the North and South Blocks—designated Grade-I heritage structures—are slated to be transformed into the Yuge Yugeen Bharat Museum, a key cultural highlight of the Central Vista vision.

Though CCS buildings are structurally ready, minor engineering modifications are still needed based on specific requirements of the ministries. "Space is being allotted after careful consideration of needs and equipment; retrofitting later will be difficult. That's why preemptive coordination is being done," sources added.

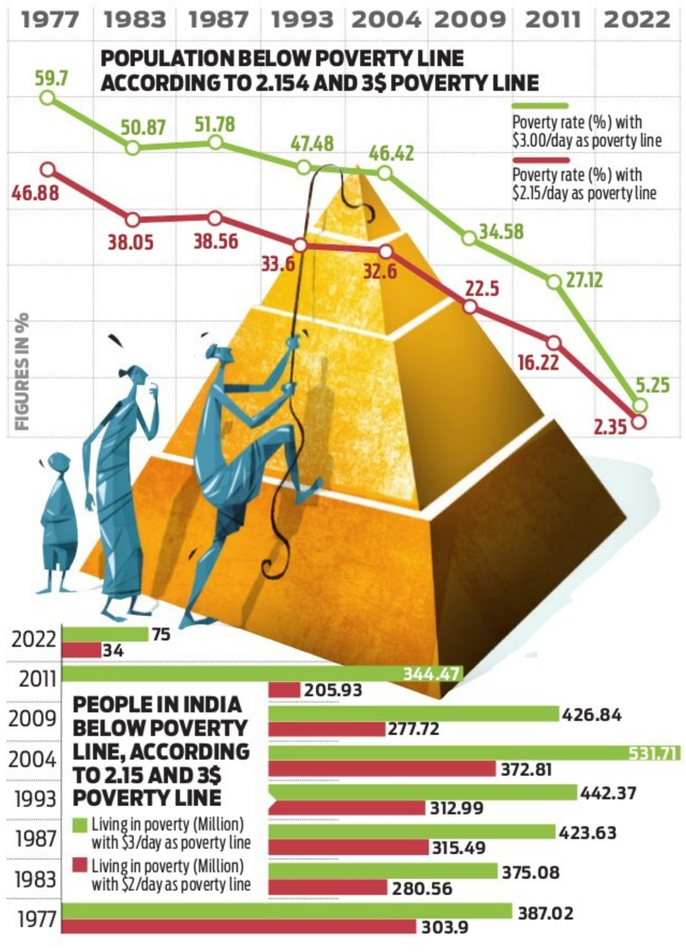
Originally scheduled for completion in March 2024, the Central Vista project is running behind schedule, with the revised deadline now extended to 2028. As part of the redevelopment plan, all central government ministries and departments will eventually be housed across 10 CCS buildings along Kartavya Path.

CPWD initiates survey to assess staff strength

To ensure adequate space allocation, the CPWD has initiated a survey to assess staff strength of each ministry operating from Shastri Bhawan. "CPWD teams will visit each room in both buildings to conduct a physical survey," officials said.

India poverty rate plummets from 27.1% to 5.3%

VISMAY BASU @ New Delhi



INDIA has recorded a dramatic decline in poverty, with the proportion of people living below the World Bank's revised international poverty line of $3.00 per day (2021 Purchasing Power Parity, PPP) dropping from 27.1% in 2011 to just 5.3% in 2022. The updated poverty threshold, up from the earlier $2.15 line based on 2017 PPP, aims to better reflect today's global prices and cost-of-living standards.

This revision offers a clearer, more realistic view of deprivation and development across countries. For India, the new metric underscores decades of progress in fighting poverty, particularly since the early 2000s.

Back in 1977, nearly 78% of India's population lived below the $3-a-day mark. By 1993, the figure had dropped to around 68%, and to about 65% in 2004. However, the most rapid decline occurred in the last two decades. Between 2004 and 2022, the poverty rate fell by nearly 60 percentage points—a trend that accelerated especially after 2011.

In terms of absolute numbers, the change is equally striking. In 2004, over 531 million Indians were classified as poor under the $3 benchmark. That number fell to about 344 million by 2011, and further to just 75 million by 2022.

Several factors explain this sharp decline. India's consistent economic growth over the past two decades has raised incomes and expanded job opportunities, particularly in urban and service sectors. Government initiatives—such as rural employment schemes, subsidised food programs, and expanded access to electricity, sanitation, and digital services—have also played a critical role in lifting millions out of poverty.

However, the data also point to the importance of continuously updating poverty lines to account for inflation and real consumption patterns. While the older $2.15-a-day metric highlighted India's poverty gains, the $3-a-day line offers a more nuanced view—capturing those who may have escaped extreme poverty but remain vulnerable.

Overall, the sharp fall in poverty under the revised benchmark reflects both substantial gains and evolving nature of development challenges in India.

Omar renews pitch for statehood

Says promotion for Manoj Sinha (from MoS to L-G) and demotion for him (now CM of UT)

FAYAZ WANI AND RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Srinagar/ Katra

State's special status scrapped in 2019

On August 5, 2019, the Centre scrapped Jammu and Kashmir's special status. It downgraded and bifurcated the state into two Union Territories: Jammu and Kashmir (with a legislature) and Ladakh (without a legislature).

Omar bats for better rail infra for J&K

The Chief Minister also highlighted the significance of rail infrastructure in elevating the region's development. He noted that even the British had once aspired to connect Kashmir by rail to the rest of the country, but they had failed.

MAKING a strong political statement in the presence of Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the inauguration of the Kashmir rail link, J&K Chief Minister Omar Abdullah on Friday made a renewed pitch for the restoration of J&K's statehood, saying he had experienced a demotion from being CM of a full-fledged state in 2014 to CM of a UT while Manoj Sinha was promoted to Lt Governor from minister of state.

He hoped that it would not take much time for the prime minister to reverse the status and restore J&K's full statehood.

"It is my luck or destiny that whenever big programs of railways happened in J&K, I luckily remained part of them. I was present at the inauguration of Anantnag railway station and also at the opening of the Banihal rail tunnel. My first government's last programme was here (in Katra) with PM Modi in 2014," Abdullah said while addressing a function after the PM flagged the train to Kashmir at Katra.

Carrying on in the same vein, the chief minister said, "Coincidentally, four people were part of that program, and they are here today also. You had become the PM for the first time and had come here after the elections. Due to the blessings of Mata, you inaugurated Katra railway station and then went on to win thrice and remained PM. The MoS, Jitendra Singh, was present there in 2014 also, and he is here today also."

Referring to J&K Lt Governor Manoj Sinha, who was also present in the function, Abdullah said, "Manoj Sinha was MoS Railways when Katra railway station was inaugurated in 2014. Due to Mata's blessings, he got a promotion (he is now LG). For me, there was some demotion as I was CM of a full-fledged state, and now I am CM of a UT".

On August 5, 2019, the Centre scrapped Jammu and Kashmir's special status. It downgraded and bifurcated the state into two Union Territories: Jammu and Kashmir (with a legislature) and Ladakh (without a legislature).

Raising the statehood demand, the chief minister said, "Today marks yet another momentous occasion. With your leadership and support, we look forward to Jammu & Kashmir regaining its status as a full-fledged state."

In his first cabinet meeting last October, after his National Conference won the maiden Assembly election in the UT, Abdullah passed a resolution calling for the restoration of statehood to J&K.

He also met with Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, and other central leaders and handed them copies of the resolution, demanding the early restoration of statehood.

CM keeps promise, flags off Raj 1st AC pilgrimage train for senior citizens

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE Bhajan Lal Sharma-led BJP government in Rajasthan on Friday flagged off the state's first air-conditioned pilgrimage train under the Senior Citizen Pilgrimage Scheme–2025.

Launched by the state Devasthan Department and linked to the larger campaign to boost religious tourism, the scheme aims to offer senior citizens a comfortable and spiritually enriching travel experience. This ambitious initiative found first mention in the state budget.

The "Rajasthan Vahini Bharat Gaurav Tourist Train" departed from Durgapura Railway Station at 10 am, carrying 779 senior citizens on its maiden journey to Rameswaram. Of these, 600 pilgrims are from Jaipur and 179 from Sawai Madhopur.

Chief Minister Sharma boarded a coach to greet and interact with the passengers before flagging off the train.

The 14-coach train is coated in saffron, evoking a spiritual atmosphere. One coach is specially dedicated to highlighting Rajasthan's contribution to the Indian armed forces, adding a patriotic layer to the religious journey.

Before its departure, cultural performances were held at the station. Pilgrims were welcomed with Tulsi garlands and Patvastra. Decorated tableaux of Ramlala from Ayodhya and a symbolic Kanwar model were also displayed.

The journey takes eight days. Pilgrims will visit prominent sacred sites, including the Ramnath Swami Jyotirlinga in Rameswaram, Dhanushkodi, Brahmakund, and the renowned Meenakshi Temple in Madurai.

The Devasthan Department has arranged for all necessary amenities, including meals, accommodation, transportation, and medical assistance. Each coach is staffed with two instructors, one doctor, and two nursing personnel to ensure the safety and well-being of the passengers.

A mobile app-based system has been introduced for real-time tracking of trains. Plans are underway to install audio systems that play devotional music and bhajans, making the journey an immersive spiritual experience. Speaking at the flag-off ceremony, Chief Minister Sharma said the air-conditioned rail pilgrimage would provide senior citizens with dignified and enhanced facilities. "We see them as members of our extended family. Government representatives will accompany them like their sons and daughters, taking care of their every need," he said.

Lift ban on issue of arms licences: BJP MLA to CM

First-time BJP MLA from the Kalapipal seat of Shajapur district, Ghanshyam Chandravanshi, has written to CM Mohan Yadav, urging him to lift the ban on the issuance of new arms licences in the state. In his letter to the CM, the legislator has emphasised the need to allow fresh armed licences in view of Operation Sindoor. "Patriotism is reigning supreme, and the people of the state, particularly women, need to be trained in the use of firearms for self-defence," he stressed, adding, "To that end, the issue of fresh arms licences must resume." The state, which has over 2.5 lakh arms licence holders, hasn't issued a fresh licence since October 2023.

MP's Pachmarhi to host 3-day BJP training camp

A three-day special training camp will be organised by the BJP for its lawmakers (MPs and MLAs) from June 14 at the state's lone hill station, Pachmarhi. Union Home Minister Amit Shah is likely to address the gathering on the inaugural day. As part of the camp, the lawmakers will be asked to refrain from making comments on sensitive issues without the permission of the party leadership. This comes in the backdrop of highly controversial remarks made by state Deputy CM Jagdish Devda, Cabinet minister Vijay Shah and seventh-time MP Faggan Singh Kulaste on Operation Sindoor.

State receives ₹1,929-cr investment proposals

The state government received investment proposals worth a whopping ₹1,929 crore at the day-long spiritual and wellness summit held in Ujjain on Thursday. During the event, CM Mohan Yadav held 14 one-on-one meetings with investors from the wellness and hospitality sectors, during which they discussed ground-level requirements, investment-friendly policies and priority areas. An MoU was inked between the National Institute of Pharmaceutical Education and Research-Ahmedabad and MP Industrial Development Corporation on the occasion under which the Ujjain Medical Device Park will receive technical and academic support.

Thackeray tieup likely ahead of BMC elections

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THERE is growing speculation that the Thackeray cousins may unite to contest the BMC and other local body elections against their Mahayuti alliance partners.

On Friday, Uddhav Thackeray of Shiv Sena (UBT) indicated that his party will align with the people's wishes.

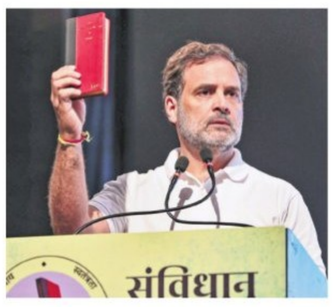
When asked about his possible collaboration with his cousin MNS chief Raj Thackeray, the Shiv Sena (UBT) president said that whatever the people desire will happen. He also said that he will soon share "good news".

Reacting to the developments, Maharashtra CM Devendra Fadnavis said the Mahayuti would contest the election together and chose not to comment on statements unrelated to him. "This is a matter between the two brothers. I have nothing to do with this development that the media is reporting," he added.

Senior Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Sanjay Raut expressed confidence that Uddhav Thackeray and Raj Thackeray are capable enough to speak with each other. "I am confident that they will speak at the right time for the larger interest of Maharashtra and Marathi manoos."

Rahul at it again, takes 'surrender' jibe at PM in Bihar

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna



SENIOR Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday reiterated his allegation about Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "habit of surrendering" and wondered why he was silent about US President Donald Trump's claims of having brokered peace between India and Pakistan.

Addressing an OBC Sammelan in Bihar's Rajgir as part of the Congress' nationwide 'Save the Constitution' campaign, Gandhi also claimed Modi would never conduct a genuine caste census in the country because he "knows that the day they will do it, their politics will end". He said that the caste census has two models—one is the BJP model, and the other is the Telangana model. He said the difference was that in the former, officers decide the questions to be asked of the public in a closed room, whereas in the latter, questions are asked openly by the public.

Taking a swipe at the PM for his repeated assertion that he belongs to the OBC (Other Backward Classes), the Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha said, "What an irony it is" that he denies the existence of caste in India whenever he is asked about caste census.

He demanded that Modi ensure the caste census is conducted fairly. Although India has 500 big companies, none of their CEOs is from the Dalit, OBC, EBC, or tribal communities.

Slamming the double-engine government in Bihar, the former Congress president claimed, "Despite being in power for 20 years, Nitish ji's double-engine government could neither provide security, nor respect, nor the development of Bihar. Crime, unemployment and migration—these have become the real identities of the Nitish-BJP government."

15-year-old raped by social media contact in Surat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

IN a distressing case from Gujarat's Surat, a 15-year-old girl from the Umarwada area was allegedly raped multiple times by a man a decade older than her that she had befriended through social media. After coming in touch with her, the man reportedly lured her into what he portrayed as a romantic relationship.

According to police, their online interactions eventually led to the exchange of phone numbers and, later, personal meetings. Investigators say the accused gained the girl's trust and convinced her that he was in love with her. He met her several times in secluded areas near a creek within the Puna police station limits, where the sexual acts were committed.

"The matter came to light only recently when the girl began suffering from abdominal pain and difficulty in breathing. Her mother initially took her to a local hospital, where the symptoms were treated, but not diagnosed. However, on June 3, after the symptoms persisted, she was taken to another hospital. The doctors there informed the family that the minor was four months pregnant," said police officials.

This revelation shocked the family. When they gently questioned her, the girl revealed the details of her contact with the accused and what had happened over the past few months. The family immediately filed a complaint at the Puna police station. The accused was subsequently arrested. Meanwhile, the minor has been admitted to the ICU for medical monitoring. Her family has filed a petition in the Surat Sessions Court seeking permission to terminate the pregnancy.

UP man accused of raping toddler killed in encounter

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A man accused of raping a two-and-a-half-year-old girl died of gunshot injuries following an encounter with police on the outskirts of the state capital on Friday, officials said.

The accused, Deepak Verma (24), had raped the girl in the Alambagh metro station area just hours earlier. He was gunned down after he opened fire on a police team that had zeroed in on him. Verma, who reportedly carried a reward of ₹1 lakh, sustained two bullet injuries in the chest and later died during treatment.

The heinous crime occurred in the early hours of Friday, when the Verma allegedly kidnapped the toddler, who was sleeping with her parents at the Alambagh metro station. Gagging her mouth, he lifted her up and carried her to the lift area, where he raped her.

After the girl fainted due to severe injuries, the accused, presuming her dead, fled the scene. A passerby who found the girl lying unconscious and bleeding alerted her parents about it. The survivor was initially taken to Lokbandhu Hospital but later referred to King George's Medical University due to the severity of her injuries. Doctors said her private parts were badly damaged, and she remained in critical condition.

CCTV footage from the metro premises has surfaced. It shows Verma arriving on a two-wheeler and then carrying the girl toward the lift. DCP (Central) Ashish Srivastava confirmed that Verma was identified through his scooter's registration number captured in the CCTV footage.

Ahead of Ludhiana West bypoll, Cong candidate summoned, SSP suspended

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE run-up to the byelection to Ludhiana (West) Assembly constituency in Punjab saw a dramatic turn of events, with the AAP government suspending the Senior SP (Vigilance) of Ludhiana, Jagatpreet Singh, after he issued summons to Congress candidate and former minister Bharat Bhushan Ashu in connection with an alleged ₹2,400-crore school land scam.

The allegation is that the SSP reportedly was in touch with Ashu and allegedly issued the notice to him so that it would generate voter sympathy for the candidate.

The summons issued on June 4 directed Ashu to appear for questioning on Friday. It related to an FIR registered on January 8 at Division Number 5 police station in which Ashu and others were accused of cheating, criminal breach of trust, forgery, and conspiracy.

The alleged scam involved 4.7 acres of land given to the New Senior Secondary School in Sarabha Nagar at a subsidised rate strictly for educational purposes by the Ludhiana Improvement Trust (LIT) decades ago. However, during investigations, it became apparent that parts of this land were being used illegally for commercial purposes.

Additional Chief Secretary (Home) Alok Shekhar issued the suspension order under the Punjab Civil Services (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1970, for his "grave misconduct and dereliction of duty".

The state Congress leadership dismissed the allegations and claimed that it was just an excuse fabricated by the state government. Calling it "a calculated attempt to intimidate" Ashu ahead of the by-poll, senior Congress leader and leader of the opposition, Partap Singh Bajwa, said, "It's clear that the AAP government first tried to use state machinery to scare Ashu into silence. Summons were issued to him by the Vigilance Bureau just weeks before polling—not as part of any genuine investigation, but as a crude, desperate tactic to gain political advantage."

Punjab Minister Tarunpreet Singh Sondh said the vigilance notice was a deceitful ploy devised by Ashu.

Akal Takht Jathedar skips annual message

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

IN a first, the officiating Akal Takht Jathedar, Kuldeep Singh Gargaj, did not deliver an annual message to the Sikh community on the anniversary of Operation Blue Star.

This marks a departure from the 41-year-old tradition of a yearly address on the occasion. Gargaj also refrained from felicitating the families of those who died during the 1984 Army operation. Instead, he stuck to performing the ardas (prayer). The move was seen as an effort to ensure a peaceful observance of the anniversary, especially after Damdami Taksal chief Harnam Singh Dhuma objected to such practices.

Meanwhile, supporters of the Shiromani Akali Dal (Amritsar) and various other Sikh organisations raised pro-Khalistan slogans in the Golden Temple complex.

Wildlife gets a safe passage: 14-km-long underpass on Dehradun-Delhi E-way

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

WITH the increasing number of tourists in Uttarakhand, the nearly-completed Dehradun-Delhi Expressway showcases a pioneering approach to balancing infrastructure development with wildlife conservation. It includes a 14-km underpass that allows safe and seamless movement for humans and wildlife alike.

According to sources at the Wildlife Institute of India (WII), camera traps installed in the underpass's peripheral area have captured remarkable images of elephants, deer, and other wildlife navigating the underpass.

The Wildlife Institute of India has deployed 160 camera traps to monitor wildlife movement and behaviour. "We are thrilled to see the wildlife thriving in the area," said a forest official.

According to NHAI sources, the upcoming Delhi-Dehradun Elevated Expressway is poised to bring dual benefits once operational - easing traffic congestion and providing a safe passage for wildlife.

"The dedicated underpass corridor will be reserved exclusively for elephants, tigers, deer, and other native wildlife, ensuring their safe movement," officials stated. Scientists and forest officials are expressing satisfaction as camera trap footage from the Dehradun-Delhi Expressway's dedicated wildlife underpass confirms active use by a diverse range of animals. The images, captured by the Wildlife Institute of India, provide crucial evidence that the innovative conservation measure is effectively facilitating safe movement for local fauna.

"The photographs clearly show movement of elephants and other wildlife," Bilal Habib, a senior scientist at the Wildlife Institute of India, told this newspaper. "Many of these photographs were taken during the night and evening hours, which is a very positive indication."

Speaking to this newspaper, Rajaji Tiger Reserve Director Coco Rose pointed out, "This is a great example of how development can be done without affecting wildlife."

Republicans want Trump, Musk to bury the hatchet

GOP fears rift could derail tax plans; Don 'has no plans to call Musk'

US President Donald Trump speaks during a news conference with Elon Musk in the Oval Office of the White House in Washington | AP

WASHINGTON

AS the Republican Party braces for aftershocks from President Donald Trump's spectacular clash with Elon Musk, lawmakers and conservative figures are urging détente, fearful of the potential consequences from a prolonged feud. At a minimum, the explosion of animosity between the two powerful men could complicate the path forward for Republicans' massive tax and border spending legislation that has been promoted by Trump but assailed by Musk.

"I hope it doesn't distract us from getting the job done that we need to," said Rep. Dan Newhouse, a Republican from Washington state. "I think that it will boil over and they'll mend fences"

Sen Ted Cruz, a Texas Republican, was similarly optimistic. "I hope that both of them come back together because when the two of them are working together, we'll get a lot more done for America than when they're at cross purposes," he told Fox News host Sean Hannity on Thursday night.

Sen Mike Lee, a Republican from Utah, sounded almost pained on social media as Trump and Musk volleyed insults at each other, sharing a photo composite of the two men and writing, "But ... I really like both of them."

"Who else really wants @elonmusk and @realDonaldTrump to reconcile?" Lee posted, later adding: "Repost if you agree that the world is a better place with the Trump-Musk bromance fully intact."

So far, the feud between Trump and Musk is probably best described as a moving target, with plenty of opportunities for escalation or detente.

One person familiar with the president's thinking said Musk wants to speak with Trump, but that the president doesn't want to do it – or at least do it on Friday. In a series of conversations with television anchors Friday morning, Trump showed no interest in burying the hatchet. Asked on ABC News about reports of a potential call between him and Musk, the president responded: "You mean the man who has lost his mind?"

Trump added in the ABC interview that he was "not particularly" interested in talking to Musk at the moment. Still, others remained hopeful that it all would blow over. AP

Is it time to create new party in US, asks Musk

Elon Musk posted a poll on X, formerly known as Twitter, asking if he should start a new political party in the US. It quickly went viral, with over 500,000 votes — 68% in favour and 32% against. Supporters hoped Musk's new party would challenge the status quo, while critics worried it could distract from his business pursuits.

Musk retreats from plan to pull Dragon spacecraft

WASHINGTON

AS President Donald Trump and Elon Musk argued on social media on Thursday, the world's richest man threatened to decommission a space capsule used to take astronauts and supplies to the International Space Station.

A few hours later, Musk said he wouldn't follow through on the threat. After Trump threatened to cut government contracts given to Musk's SpaceX rocket company and his Starlink internet satellite services, Musk responded via X that SpaceX "will begin decommissioning its Dragon spacecraft immediately."

It was unclear how serious Musk's threat was, but several hours later — in a reply to another X user — he said he wouldn't do it.

The capsule, developed with the help of government contracts, is an important part of keeping the space station running. NASA also relies heavily on SpaceX for other programs including launching science missions and, later this decade, returning astronauts to the surface of the moon. SpaceX is the only US company capable right now of transporting crews to and from the space station, using its four-person Dragon capsules.

Boeing's Starliner capsule has flown astronauts only once; last year's test flight went so badly that the two NASA astronauts had to hitch a ride back to Earth via SpaceX in March, more than nine months after launching last June.

Starliner remains grounded as NASA decides whether to go with another test flight with cargo, rather than a crew. AP

Russian bombardment with missiles and drones kills 4, injures 50 in Ukraine

KYIV

RUSSIA bombarded six regions of Ukraine in one of its largest aerial attacks of the three-year war, Ukrainian officials said Friday. The nighttime assault lasted for hours and killed three emergency responders in the capital Kyiv as well as another person in a northwestern city, according to authorities.

The barrage included 407 drones and 44 ballistic and cruise missiles, Ukrainian air force spokesperson Yurii Ihnat said. Ukrainian forces said they shot down about 30 of the cruise missiles and up to 200 of the drones.

Some 50 Ukrainian civilians were injured across the country, emergency services said. The latest Russian attack came hours after US President Donald Trump said it might be better to let Ukraine and Russia "fight for a while" before pulling them apart and pursuing peace. Trump's comments were a remarkable detour from his often-stated appeals to stop the war and signaled he may be giving up on recent peace efforts.

An explosion is seen after a Russian air strike on Kyiv, Ukraine, on Friday | AP

Ukrainian cities have come under regular bombardment since Russia invaded its neighbor in February 2022. The attacks have killed more than 12,000 civilians, according to the United Nations. "Russia doesn't change its stripes," Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said. Zelenskyy, as well as the Ukrainian Interior Ministry and the general prosecutor's office, said three emergency workers were killed in Kyiv while responding to the Russian strikes. "They were working under fire to help people," the Interior Ministry said in a statement.

The war continues even as a US-led diplomatic push has prompted two rounds of direct peace talks between Russia and Ukraine. AP

Strike achieved its objective: Defence Min

Moscow: The Russian Defence Ministry said on Fridaysaid the armed forces carried out a massive strike with long-range air, sea, and ground-based high-precision weapons, as well as with UAVs against design bureaus, enterprises producing and repairing weapons and military hardware of Ukraine, attack drone assembly workshops, flight training centres, and weapons and military hardware depots, it said in a statement. "The aim of the strike has been achieved. All the assigned targets have been engaged,' the statement added.

JAPANESE COURT REJECTS CLAIMS AGAINST FUKUSHIMA EXECUTIVES

TOKYO

A Japanese court ruled former executives at the utility managing the tsunami-wrecked Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant were not accountable for the 2011 meltdown crisis and do not need to pay damages to the company.

The Tokyo High Court ruling on Friday reversed a lower court decision in 2022 ordering four former executives of the Tokyo Electric Power Company Holdings to pay 13 trillion yen ($90 billion) to the company, saying they had failed to take the utmost safety precautions despite knowing the risks of a serious accident in a major tsunami. A magitude 9.0 earthquake and tsunami in March 2011 destroyed key cooling systems at the Fukushima Daiichi plant, causing its three reactors to melt down, spreading large amounts of radiation in the area and keeping tens of thousands of residents from returning home due to radioactive contamination and other safety concerns.

Plaintiffs march into the Tokyo High Court for a ruling | AP

The Tokyo District Court ruling three years ago was the only ruling that held the former TEPCO liable for the Fukushima disaster. It upheld the plaintiffs' argument that the executives had neglected to heed experts' long-term tsunami predictions and failed to take adequate tsunami precaution measures soon enough.

The court said, however, the long-term tsunami prediction was not considered pressing data requiring immediate tsunami measures and it was understandable the executives had no sense of urgency from the data they had at that time, Kyodo News reported.

Friday's ruling is a major disappointment for Fukushima residents and anti-nuclear activists seeking the managements' responsibility in nuclear safety.

Plaintiffs and their lawyers criticized the ruling as "unjust" and said they planned to appeal to the Supreme Court. Hiroyuki Kawai, a plaintiffs' lawyer, criticized the ruling as "logically flawed," saying it means nobody can be held liable for any safety negligence because tsunami and earthquake predictions are still impossible today. AP

ASIA MATTERS

AIRPORTS TO SEE 8% PASSENGER SURGE FOR EID

Indonesia's InJourney Airports expects an 8% increase in passengers during the Eid al-Adha holiday from June 5-10, 2025, projecting about 2.71 million travelers across 37 airports. The peak day is June 5, with around 500,000 passengers, followed by June 9 after the holiday. Flight traffic is also expected to rise by 5.25%, driven by the holiday's timing near the weekend and joint leave. Airports are coordinating with stakeholders to ensure smooth operations, prioritizing safety, security, and service throughout the busy period.

THAI-CAMBODIA BORDER TENSIONS RISE

Tensions along the Thai-Cambodian border have escalated, with both nations deploying armed troops amid volatile conditions. Military leaders suspect the unrest is driven by political motives rather than combat but remain cautious as any spark could trigger conflict. The situation coincides with key political events in Thailand, including court hearings related to former PM Thaksin Shinawatra and a delayed Joint Boundary Commission meeting with Cambodia. Thailand orders border provinces to prepare evacuation amid security concerns.

Gaza marks Eid with outdoor prayers in rubble, scarce food

DEIR AL-BALAH

PALESTINIANS across the war-ravaged Gaza Strip marked the start of one of Islam's most important holidays with prayers outside destroyed mosques and homes early Friday, with little hope the war with Israel will end soon.

With much of Gaza in rubble, men and children were forced to hold the traditional Eid al-Adha prayers in the open air and with food supplies dwindling, families were having to make do with what they could scrape together for the three-day feast.

"This is the worst feast that the Palestinian people have experienced because of the unjust war against the Palestinian people," said Kamel Emran after attending prayers in the southern city of Khan Younis. "There is no food, no flour, no shelter, no mosques, no homes, no mattresses... The conditions are very, very harsh."

The Islamic holiday begins on the 10th day of the Islamic lunar month of Dhul-Hijja, during the Hajj season in Saudi Arabia. For the second year, Muslims in Gaza were not able to travel to Saudi Arabia to perform the traditional pilgrimage. In Gaza City on Friday, Sanaa Al-Ghola, a displaced woman from Shejaiyah, stood in the rubble of a badly damaged graveyard near a partially collapsed mosque. She had come to pray for her son, Mohamed al-Ghoul. His father was wounded in the attack.

In the southern city of Rafah, nine people were killed on their way to try and collect humanitarian aid at various distribution points, according to officials at Nasser Hospital in nearby Khan Younis, where the bodies were brought.

Eight died from gunshot wounds and the ninth person from shrapnel injuries. AFP

Israel activated Palestinian clans opposed to Hamas

JERUSALEM: Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said Thursday that Israel has "activated" some clans of Palestinians in Gaza that are opposed to Hamas, though it was not immediately clear what role they would play. His comments on social media were the first public acknowledgment of Israel's backing of armed Palestinian groups within Gaza, based around powerful clans or extended families. Such clans often wield some control in corners of Gaza, and some have had clashes or tensions with Hamas in the past. Palestinians and aid workers have accused clans of carrying out criminal attacks and stealing aid from trucks.

Merz says Don willing to talk and committed to NATO

BERLIN

GERMAN Chancellor Friedrich Merz said Friday, a day after meeting with President Donald Trump at the White House, that he encountered a US administration open to discussion and returned confident that Washington remains committed to NATO.

Merz described his Oval Office meeting and extended lunch with Trump as constructive but also candid, noting that the two leaders expressed different views on Ukraine.

"Yesterday, in the meeting at the Oval Office, I expressed a distinctly different position on the topic of Ukraine than the one Trump had taken, and not only was there no objection, but we discussed it in detail again over lunch," Merz said in Berlin after his return.

Thursday's White House meeting marked the first time the two sat down in person. Merz, who became chancellor in May, avoided the kind of confrontations in the Oval Office that have tripped up other world leaders, including Ukraine's Volodymyr Zelenskyy and South Africa's Cyril Ramaphosa. AP

RUSSIA BARS BRITISH COUNCIL OVER SPY CLAIMS

Moscow: Russia has declared the British Council an "undesirable" organization, accusing it of being a front for UK intelligence operations aimed at undermining sovereignty. The Russian Foreign Ministry claims the Council engaged in subversive activities and helped discredit Russia, especially after the Ukraine conflict began. Although the British Council's Russian office closed in 2018, Moscow says it continued subversive work abroad. The designation reflects new Russian laws allowing such status for foreign government-linked groups.

With the 100 basis point cumulative reduction in repo rates in 2025, existing home loan rates are now expected to come down to 7.5%

REAL ESTATE, AUTO SECTORS HOPE FOR DEMAND REVIVAL

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE 50 bps repo rate cut will instantly impact the home loan borrowers as banks will have to reduce the repo rate-linked homes loans rates by a same amount. New loan rates may not get repriced immediately, but they will come down nonetheless.

With the 100 basis point cumulative reduction in repo rates in 2025, existing home loan rates are now likely to come down to 7.5%. This gives hope to the real estate sector that housing demand will get a boost.Anuj Puri, Chairman of ANAROCK Group, said this effectively lowers the cost of borrowing, making home loan EMIs easier on the pocket, thereby directly improving affordability for buyers. "This can boost demand in the real estate sector, especially in affordable and mid-income segments. Affordable housing faced the sharpest pandemic fallout, with sales and new launches shrinking in the top 7 cities," added Puri.

The reduction in cash reserve ratio (CRR) is likely to boost liquidity in banking system, resulting in more funds for lending. RBI cut CRR by 100 bps from 4% to 3%, releasing ₹2.5 lakh crore into the system. "Developers will be able to access more capital for their projects, and this can positively impact project completion timelines," Puri said. As per Anarock data, housing sales fell 28% across top 7 cities in Q1CY25 due to skyrocketing residential prices coupled with geopolitical headwinds. Meanwhile, auto industry, grappling with sluggish sales, expects a revival in demand after the latest round of rate cut. Industry experts say the rate cut, coupled with a 100-basis-point cut in CRR, will improve financing accessibility and lower borrowing costs, boosting consumer sentiment.

Shailesh Chandra, President, SIAM and MD of Tata Passenger Vehicles Ltd & Tata Passenger Electric Mobility said that such reduction in repo rates would have a positive impact on the Auto sector since it would lead to increased accessibility to finance at reduced costs, thereby creating a positive sentiment amongst the consumers in the market. Anish Shah, Group CEO & MD, Mahindra Group said that the rate cut will serve as a positive catalyst for consumption and investment, particularly in interest-sensitive sectors such as automobiles, housing, and MSMEs.

To have positive impact on auto sector: SIAM Prez

EQUITY MARKET RALLY ON RBI'S POLICY DECISIONS

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE sharper-than-expected 50 basis point repo rate cut, along with a 100 basis point reduction in the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR), triggered a strong market rally on Friday. The benchmark Nifty50 surged over 350 points from its intraday low to close above the 25,000 mark, while the BSE Sensex ended near 82,200.

Investors piled into rate-sensitive sectors, driving gains in banking, NBFC, auto, and realty stocks. At Friday's close, the Sensex advanced 746.95 points or 0.92% to settle at 82,188.99, and the Nifty surged 252.15 points or 1.02% at 25,003.05. In the broader market, the BSE midcap index added 0.9% and smallcap index jumped 0.4%.

Dhiraj Relli, MD & CEO, HDFC Securities, said with enhanced liquidity and reduced borrowing costs, conditions are now set for sustained economic momentum and a market recovery. Relli stated that this stimulus could propel Indian equity markets beyond their current trading range, potentially pushing the Nifty past 25,000 and toward previous highs of 26,200.

The 50 bps rate cut move, led by Governor Sanjay Malhotra, exceeded market expectations of a modest 25 basis points cut, thus leading to a broad-based rally. Adding to the bullish sentiment, the RBI's shift from an accommodative to a neutral policy stance while maintaining its real GDP growth forecast signaled confidence in economic stability, said experts. The street also cheered the central bank's decision to slash the CRR by 100 bps (from 4% to 3%), a move expected to inject Rs 2.5 lakh crore into the banking system.

Rate-sensitive stocks recorded sharp buying. Shares of real estate firms such as DLF, Prestige Estate and Godrej Properties rose between 5 and 7% each while auto stocks such as Maruti Suzuki, Ashok Leyland, Mahindra % Mahindra and Hero MotoCorp were up between 2% and 4%.

Shares of NBFC and banking heavyweights such as Bajaj Finance, HDFC Bank and Axis Bank advanced between 2% and 5%.

About 45% of loan book is linked to external benchmarks and transmission there is immediate. We have seen a 27 bps transmission on deposit side after 25bps cut in Feb

Sanjay Malhotra, RBI governor

Rate cut transmission faster this time: RBI Guv

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE transmission of rate cuts happens with a lag, but this time around the transmission has been faster, RBI governor Sanjay Malhotra said in the post-policy press conference following the RBI's decision to cut the repo rate by 25 basis points.

Malhotra acknowledged that while the RBI has front-loaded monetary easing to support growth, the transmission of rate cuts to the broader economy remains uneven and subject to time lags.

He said the pass-through of policy rate changes is quicker on lending side, mainly for loans linked to external benchmarks. "About 45% of our loan book is linked to external benchmarks, and the transmission there is immediate," he said. However, the deposit side remains more rigid, with no formal mechanism to mirror repo rate changes instantly. "Despite that, we have already seen a 27 bps transmission on deposit side following a 25bps cut in February," the governor noted. Malhotra said monetary transmission occurs with a lag of six-nine months, based on past easing and tightening cycles. "It will happen this time too," he said, adding that initial signs are already visible.

Providing data to support this, Malhotra said the average deposit rates have declined by 27 bps , while lending rates on outstanding credit have come down by 17 bps. However, the cut on fresh loans has been a modest 6 bps, indicating some inertia in banks' repricing of new credit. Malhotra termed the current pace of transmission "better than in past cycles," but emphasised the need for faster pass-through. "That's why we have frontloaded some of our actions," he said.

With the policy stance shifted to "neutral" and inflation projected at 3.7% for the current fiscal, the RBI signaled a data-dependent approach ahead, while encouraging quicker alignment by banks to its monetary signals.

Musk's Starlink receives Satcom licence

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

ELON MUSK-led Starlink on Friday received a licence to offer satellite-based broadband services in India. With this, Starlink becomes the third company authorised to provide satellite internet in the country, following Bharti Airtel–Eutelsat's OneWeb and Reliance Jio.

This development sets the stage for a high-stake competition between Musk and Mukesh Ambani's Reliance Jio in India's satellite broadband space. However, Starlink must secure approval from IN-SPACe (Indian National Space Promotion and Authorization Centre), which operates under the Department of Space (DoS) before starting the commercial services in the country.

As per sources in the Department of Telecommunications (DoT), Starlink can apply for spectrum allocation to begin trial services in India. The company will get spectrum for trial in the next 15-20 days. However, commercial rollout may take several months, as final spectrum allocation is still pending. "Starlink agreed to the conditions mandated by the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) for licensing, which is why it was granted the license. Now the company can apply for spectrum for trial services," said an official from the DoT.

Starlink has been attempting to enter India's satellite communications market since 2021 but had previously not received the GMPCS (Global Mobile Personal Communication by Satellite) license. In fact, the company had started accepting pre-orders before receiving formal approval, prompting the Indian government to instruct it to refund customers. Meanwhile, the application from Jeff Bezos-owned Amazon Kuiper remains under review by DoT.

Satellite communication (Satcom) uses satellites to deliver data and voice services, particularly in regions where deploying traditional fiber-optic infrastructure is unfeasible. "We will do our best to serve the people of India with Starlink," said Musk on X.

Internet speed at 50-200 Mbps

According to a report by Bernstein, Starlink offers broadband speeds ranging from 50-200 Mbps. The service currently requires an upfront payment of ₹52,242, with a monthly subscription fee of ₹10,469.

Wipro Consumer Care Ventures invests in D2C pet food start-up Goofy Tails

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

WIPRO Consumer Care - Ventures, the venture capital arm of Wipro Consumer Care & Lighting, will invest in New Delhi-based D2C pet food start-up Goofy Tails.

The current pre-series A raise by the start-up is for over $ 1 million, bringing total capital raised by the company to $2 million till date. This is the VC firm's first investment in pet care segment, the third investment this calendar year. With this, Wipro has deployed its Fund I and will now kick-off its recently launched Fund II, which has a corpus of ₹250 crore.

Founded in 2021 by Karan, Kartik, Kunal and Ashish, Goofy Tails has served over 2 lakh pets. India's pet food market is projected to reach $1.7 billion by FY31, with 70% contributed by dog food and 30% being cat food, the firm said. Sumit Keshan, managing partner, Wipro Consumer Care, said, "With pets becoming family, there is a growing demand for high quality, nutritious, and innovative pet food products. This marks our first investment in pet food space and reinforces our commitment to backing brands that cater to evolving consumer needs."

DGGI closes GST proceedings against Infosys

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a major relief for Infosys, the Directorate General of GST Intelligence (DGGI) has closed the pre-show cause notice proceedings related to an alleged ₹32,403 crore non-payment of Integrated GST (IGST) under the Reverse Charge Mechanism for the financial years 2018–19 to 2021–22.

The IT services major disclosed this development in a stock exchange filing on Thursday, stating that the matter is now fully closed. The closure follows earlier communications from DGGI, including a similar notice withdrawal for FY17–18 issued on August 3, 2024. The issue pertained to a pre-show cause notice covering the period from July 2017 to March 2022, during which the company was alleged to have defaulted on IGST payments under the reverse charge framework. Infosys had responded to the notices and consistently maintained its compliance with the GST regime.

"This matter stands closed," the company stated, adding that the communication from DGGI was received earlier on Friday.

Birla Opus files antitrust complaint against market leader Asian Paints

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

ADITYA Birla Group's paint venture - Birla Opus - has reportedly filed an antitrust complaint against market leader Asian Paints, alleging abuse of market dominance. Birla Opus, which comes nder Grasim Ltd, claims Asian Paints has been forcing paint retailers to avoid stocking Birla Opus products.

As per Reuters, the confidential complaint submitted by Birla Opus to the Competition Commission of India (CCI) has been under review in recent weeks. The CCI is yet to decide if the complaint holds merit and needs a broader probe by its investigations unit, or should be dismissed.

Birla Opus alleges that Asian Paints has warned dealers of restricting their credit facilities if they stock the rival's products. Asian Paints has allegedly told its dealers it will curtail its supplies to them if they put up hoardings of Birla paint products or place them at prominent places, as per Birla's complaint. The report stated that Asian Paints has not been told about the case and it has told the CCI in a confidential letter that the company must be allowed fair comment before any decision is taken.

"The rapid and substantial growth of Birla Opus demonstrated the absence of any significant barriers to entry or anti-competitive conduct by existing players," the Asian Paints letter to the CCI stated.

Asian Paints holds 52% share in India's decorative paints market. However, since the arrival of Birla Opus in February 2024, it has started to face heat. As per Elara Capital, within just over a year of launch, Birla Opus has captured nearly 7% market share by March 2025.

Decentro to flip back to India; raises ₹30 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

AFTER PhonePe and Razorpay, now Decentro, the API banking platform, will shift its parent entity from Singapore to India over next 12-18 months. The decision reflects a broader trend of Indian fintech companies choosing to domicile in India.

"This flip is a strong statement of commitment to India and our belief in its capacity to foster and scale financial infra companies. We are building not just for India, but from India for global opportunities," said Pratik Daudkhane, co-founder of Decentro. The start-up, on Friday announced it closed a ₹30 crore funding. So far, it has raised $8.19 mn. Led by InfoEdge Ventures, with participation from Stargazer Growth (backed by Groww CEO Lalit Keshre) and investors including Uncorrelated Ventures, among others, the round comes at a time when Decentro has achieved profitability.

JAPAN

GOVT SAYS NOT RELYING ON TAX CUTS TO BOOST INCOME

Japan's government is distancing itself from tax cuts in its annual policy guidelines amid volatility in the government debt market driven partly by concerns about the country's tattered finances. The draft of the annual economic and fiscal policy guidelines, presented on Friday, stated Japan will aim to achieve higher disposable household income via wage growth that consistently outpaces inflation, "not through tax cuts." The statement highlights the government's efforts to keep fiscal discipline amid growing calls from politicians for tax breaks to appease voters hit by rising living costs, ahead of an Upper House election set for July. The opposition Constitutional Democratic Party of Japan and Japan Innovation Party have been pushing for a zero consumption tax rate on food for certain periods to cushion the impact of US tariffs and inflation on households.

THAILAND

UNVEILS $400 MN TOURISM STIMULUS PACKAGE

Thailand has announced a tourism stimulus package worth over $400 million, with aim to generate $8 billion in revenue, as per the country's Ministry of Tourism and Sports. The plan, set for Cabinet consideration on June 10, includes both short-term tourism incentives and longer-term infrastructure improvements across major tourist destinations. This is reported by VNA, a partner of TV BRICS. As per the source, a targeted initiative has been developed to attract 140,000 visitors from 15 second-tier Chinese cities. The government is prioritising cooperation with domestic and international airlines to expand air connectivity. The expansion includes new planned direct routes between Kazakhstan and Phuket. This strategic investment is part of Thailand's broader effort to boost growth through infra upgrades and targeted international outreach, the source claims.

PHILIPPINE

INFLATION EASES IN MAY

Philippine annual inflation declined for the fourth consecutive month in May, driven by slower rise in utility and food prices, the government said on Thursday, and the central bank said the data would allow for a more accommodative monetary policy. The consumer price index increased 1.3% year-on-year in May, down from 1.4% in April, marking the lowest inflation rate since November 2019. Price increases for housing, water, electricity, and other fuel items moderated to 2.3% in May from 2.9% in April, while transport costs declined more sharply, falling 2.4% versus April's 2.1% drop. Core inflation, which excludes volatile food and energy prices, was steady at 2.2%. The BSP resumed monetary easing in April, cutting its key policy rate by 25 basis points to 5.5% to support economic growth amid global headwinds.

Dabhol LNG terminal operates in full capacity

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GAIL on Friday announced that it has started operating its 5 million tonne (MT) a year liquefied natural gas (LNG) import terminal at Dabhol in Maharashtra at full capacity.

Its vessel, GAIL Bhuwan, was received on June 2, 2025, by GAIL Chairman and MD Sandeep Kumar Gupta and director (marketing) Sanjay Kumar, marking commencement of uninterrupted, round-the-year operations at the terminal. The company had to shut Ratnagiri terminal for four months from May 25 each year to avoid high swell in sea damaging ships or the jetty while berthing. The firm has completed building a breakwater to guard ships during monsoon season. "GAIL has berthed and discharged its first LNG vessel at Dabhol LNG terminal after completion of breakwater project," the company said. "With commissioning of breakwater after receipt of approvals, Dabhol LNG terminal has been designated an all-weather port which is a critical transformation that ensures safe and reliable LNG operations even during the Southwest monsoon, traditionally a challenging period for marine logistics on India's west coast," the statement said.

Chawla announces retirement from all forms of cricket

Veteran leg-spinner Piyush Chawla, who was part of India's two World Cup-winning campaigns, on Friday announced his retirement from all forms of cricket after a career spanning more than two decades to undertake a "new journey" that he did not specify. The 36-year-old made the announcement via an Instagram post.

The nondescript town in Norway's southwest may not have a lot going for it but its tourism industry has thrived thanks to Man City striker

THE SMALL SPECK IN NORWAY'S MAP ERLING HAALAND CALLS HOME

NORWAY emerged as an ideal tourist destination due to its proximity to Aurora Borealis, the shimmering, dancing spectacle of colours aka Northern Lights. With its long coastline, Insta-worthy fjords and all kinds of hikes -- the one to Pulpit Rock in the country's southwest calls hikers from all around the world — travellers keep flocking to this part of the world on a regular basis. On average, there are over six million international visitors per year, remarkable because Norway is home to 5.5 million residents. Over the last few years, though, a fair few backpackers have added a new destination.

Bryne.

A coastal town in Rogaland county south of Stavanger, it is your stereotypical small town in western Europe. The houses are cute, the air is clean, everybody knows everybody (population is just north of 12000), commercial establishments are small and rolling meadows dominate the periphery. So why did Bryne, the smallest of dots on the map, go from being a nondescript town to welcoming visitors from all seven continents?

Erling Braut Haaland.

One of Norway's most famous athletes, Haaland may have been born in Leeds in the UK but the family moved back when he was still a baby. With baby Haaland naturally showing an inclination towards the game — father, Alf-Inge, was an international footballer — he quickly came up the ranks at Bryne, the local club named after the town. Kjell Madland, the founder of the Norway Chess, was a former CEO of the club. Even if he took time to develop his physical attributes, something about his mental capacities convinced the club's youth coaches that he was going to be a keeper.

Having joined the youth system in 2006, he progressed through the ranks thanks to an uncommon appetite to keep getting better. Even today, coaches at the club talk about his A+ attitude in training sessions. That's what kept him in good stead as he missed several growth spurts. That, however, didn't stop the youth coaches from promoting their forward to an age group at least a year older. Off the field, he showed respect. "On the field," one of the volunteers at the club says, "there wasn't much of that. He would go up against anybody." This outlook of his won a lot of fans.

Soon enough, at the age of 15, he found himself in Bryne's first team. He played over a dozen games for the then second-division side but he didn't score a single goal. He left for Molde in Norway's north post that season and, as it turned out, he went from strength to strength.

Weekend Special

But, for the football club and the tight-knit community in and around Bryne, Haaland is everywhere.

He exists in a giant-sized mural from his Borussia Dortmund days on a busy intersection overlooking the train station. A smaller mural of his father is on a wall just outside an Indian tandoor restaurant. Several Haaland specials are found on the menus of various eateries. The club shop sells Haaland merch. A 'Haaland Stadium tour' is part of the charm offensive the city offers to tourists. There's a Haaland suite in one of the hotels next to the club stadium. One of the nearby stalls even sells a drink the footballer swears by, 'cow's milk'.

It's pretty obvious that the local community acts as a collective for Haaland. When Man City played Inter Milan in the 2023 edition of the Champions League, 2500 people watched a special screening in the city centre. Or, to put it in other words, 20 per cent of the population. The connection is mutual. "Whenever he has some free time, Haaland comes back to the club and to this community," one of the volunteers says. "He has a house here overlooking the club."

The 24-year-old may have left his first club without a single senior goal but he's still paying them handsomely. Thanks to transfer rules, whenever he's sold, money gets trickled down. For example, when the striker was bought by Manchester City, Bryne received over 10mn NOK. They could receive an even greater piece of the pie if a Real Madrid come calling.

The Jaeren region of Norway supports agriculture thanks to a climate conducive to it, something that cannot be said for places up north. Its agricultural identity is very much present in Bryne, one of the main towns in the region. Nowhere is this more evident than inside the club. They have a separate enclosure for farmers to come in with their tractors. In a game in April, the man of the match received several trays of locally sourced eggs. Milk has also been handed out as a prize for the MVP. "Our goal is to forge a farmers' identity and instil pride in both the club and the region," Bjorn Hagerup Roeken, the club's marketing manager, had told Reuters in April. This pride, or the abundance and the importance of the region's fertile soil, is plastered next to a life-size image of Haaland inside the club's indoor training facility.

Erling Haaland

When translated into English, it says: "We will sow the joy of football, nurture talent and harvest miracles." It's kind of poetic why the club has this as their call to arms. Jaeren wasn't always amenable to agriculture. The story goes that the people of the Jaeren put in a lot of hours to make the soil cultivable at a time when automation wasn't possible. So, hard work was the only way forward.

Agriculture. Hard work. Haaland. Miracles. It just ties in.

Pep Guardiola knows Haaland like the back of his hand. When Haaland was coming through the various age-group teams, Espen Undheim was that coach. "When he was 8-9-10... he had that same spirit for scoring goals," Undheim, who has been associated with Bryne for the last 25 years, says. "If he didn't get the ball when he was in the right position, he got angry. If he didn't score when he had obvious chances, he got angry. He was always hungry for scoring goals. "Back then, he was one of the smallest guys. So, he couldn't use his physical skills. He had to be clever to get in the right position to score but he also had the mentality as he was always prepared. He was looking at older players, he was looking at star players in other leagues. He was always looking for how to get in behind and score. His mentality for being in the right position, to get the ball in the right position, that's quite special. I haven't seen that since I saw him when he was a youth player.

"You can't see that normally in boys who are 9-10-11. Only special kids are thinking like that. I also have videos of speaking to him after training sessions where I would ask him 'how did it go today'?" And he would say 'not good, only scored one'. And when I pointed out, but you helped your team, he would say 'not good, I had to score four or five'."

He married that preternatural ability with an immeasurable spirit. "He had a lot of his own training," Undheim adds. "He lived inside the indoor arena. Before training began, he would be on his own, shooting, and dribbling. After training, he would be playing games with his friends. Even if we were off on Saturdays and Sundays, he would spend four hours in there." These days, a lot of 11-12-13-year-olds at Bryne look up to Haaland. "I'm now the head coach of the Under-13s," Espen says. "The kids tune in whenever City or Norway play. Last week when he was downtown, a lot of the kids ran up to him to get his sign."

****

These are heady days for Bryne. Last year, they won promotion to the Eliteserien, the top division. It was their first in over two decades. But the club's biggest honour is the 1987 win in the domestic Cup final (pictures from that win occupy a pride of place in the club's corridors). It's still their only title in nearly 100-year history (they turn 100 next year). But they will always be remembered as the club of Erling Braut Haaland. A local hero and a national treasure whose worth is already incalculable.

Late blow for Gukesh as Carlsen wins

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Stavanger

MAGNUS Carlsen is the Norway Chess champion for a seventh time after D Gukesh made a big blunder at the end of his game against Fabiano Caruana. On a day of high drama, Carlsen and Gukesh, separated by 0.5 points before the last and final round on Friday, were under pressure for large parts of their respective ties against Arjun Erigaisi and Caruana respectively.

Gukesh knew he could illafford a loss as he was trailing. So, he soldiered on, even in an almost lost position. But he knew he could win the event because Erigaisi had put the World No 1 under massive pressure for over three hours and change. But once Erigaisi made small inaccuracies, the Norwegian engineered big counter play chances for himself. When he had the one winning move stating at him in the endgame, he didn't find it. The eval bar restored parity and they repeated their moves three times, signalling a draw.

The 34-year-old would have likely pushed on for a win if the Indian world champion, Gukesh, was not in a terrible position. But moments after Carlsen and Erigaisi called truce, Caruana blundered and Gukesh had chances of winning the tournament. But under severe time pressure and having defended so resolutely for so long he jumped at the chance of queening his d pawn rather than holding on to his position.

Satwik-Chirag crash out of Indonesia Open

AGENCIES @ Jakarta

With the duo's exit, India's campaign ended in the competition

INDIA'S top men's doubles pair Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty bowed out of the Indonesia Open Super 1000 tournament after losing to Malaysia's Man Wei Chong and Tee Kai Wun in the quarterfinals here on Friday.

The former World No 1 Indian duo, who won the title in 2023, went down 19-21, 16-21 in a 43-minute contest against the flat-hitting Malaysian pair, who notched up their first win over the Indians in five meetings. Satwik-Chirag's loss ended the Indian challenge in the competition. The Indians looked rusty as they struggled with their serve and return against Man and Wee, who won the Malaysia Masters last month and Indonesia Masters in January.

The Indians also lacked the discipline in defence and anticipation and were often put in uncomfortable positions and rushed errors throughout the match by the Malaysians.

Satwik sent a couple into the net, allowing the Malaysians to edge ahead 9-7. They went into the mid-game interval leading 11-9. Satwik-Chirag levelled at 11-all with aggressive flat exchanges, but Man and Tee restored a 15-12 cushion. The Indians clawed back to 17-17 after the Malaysians hit the net twice, but couldn't capitalise.

Alcaraz set for title defence after Musetti retires

Carlos Alcaraz (R) & Lorenzo Musetti greet each other after the match | AP

CARLOS Alcaraz took his Roland Garros title defence all the way as he booked his spot in the final after eighth seed Lorenzo Musetti retired injured in the fourth set of their semifinal on Friday. The Spaniard led 4-6, 7-6 (3), 6-0, 2-0 after two hours and 25 minutes of play under the roof on Court Philippe Chatrier when Musetti quit with a thigh issue.

"It's been three intense weeks and now I have one step to make," he said. "I'll give everything on Sunday, I've been playing great tennis this tournament."

He now leads 23-year-old Musetti 6-1 in their head-to-head series, winning all three of their clay-court battles this season after victories in the final at Monte Carlo and semi-finals of the Italian Open.

The 22-year-old is now into his second French Open showpiece match, and fifth Major final overall. Just as in the Monte Carlo final in April, it was the Tuscan who clinched the first set in the latest edition of the budding Alcaraz-Musetti rivalry.

Both players battled through an even opener that offered up occasional sparks of brilliance, but every time a sniff of a break opportunity appeared the server upped his game to nullify it.

Major battle between top-two

Aryna Sabalenka of Belarus and USA's Coco Gauff, who're ranked World No 1 & World No 2 respectively, will be facing each other in the French Open final today. Both are eyeing their first Major at Roland Garros. A look...

Third time lucky?

The 21-year-old American swept into her third Grand Slam singles final with a 6-1, 6-2 win that put an abrupt end to surprise French hero Lois Boisson's improbable run in Paris. Gauff lost the 2022 French Open final to Iga Swiatek before beating Sabalenka a year later to capture her first Major title at the US Open.

HEAD-TO-HEAD

- It's 50/50 with boths players winning 5 each in 10 meetings.
- In their most-recent meeting in Madrid (clay-court surface), Sabalenka had emerged winner.

Live on Sony Sports Network @ 6:30 PM

Power player

With her powerful game, Sabalenka has had an amazing run so far and will be hoping to cap it off with a title. The Belarusian snapped Iga Swiatek's French Open winning streak at 26 matches with a superb show on Friday and she'll be hoping to replicate that performance against Gauff in her first final at the clay-court Slam.

4 Sabalenka is the first player to reach the final in three consecutive women's singles Grand Slam events (US Open 2024, Australian and French Open 2025) since Serena Williams in 2016.

India seek hockey WC spot in European leg

CHANDRA PRABHU @ Chennai

SIX games in nine days — that is what the Indian men's hockey team would pursue in their quest for a spot in next year's Hockey World Cup. After a mixed Indian leg earlier this year (five wins, three losses), India are in the third spot with 15 points. England and Belgium are first and second respectively with 16 points each.

"We are definitely putting that (European Leg) as a priority to try and qualify through the Pro League. Obviously if it doesn't work out, we have the Asia Cup in August in Bihar, but we've been training well for this, so we really want to try and finish as high as we possibly can and get on the podium," he said in a virtual press conference ahead of the European Leg of the FIH Pro League. India play Netherlands on Saturday.

The eight-game leg will see India play Belgium, Netherlands, Argentina and Australia. For that, the Indian camp has gone through some physically intensive training sessions; 400m sprints, enudrance drills and high-intensity gym sessions were part of that camp in April.

Fulton explained how it would help his team compete against the best teams. "We have to travel from Amsterdam to Antwerp in Belgium and a day later we play. So the preparation is geared around being physically able to cope with the load of the games. I think everything we were pushing for was around being physically conditioned to play against the best teams in the world, starting off with Holland. That was the whole reason behind pushing as hard as we have. And yeah, we'll see how we go tomorrow (Saturday)."

India head coach Craig Fulton | HI

With regards to squad selection, Fulton has banked on experience rather than youth. "If you look at the four teams that we are playing, all three of them are in the top six in the world. And Argentina are there as well. So, for us to do well and to try and finish strong tactically, we're going to be really challenged."

Yamal, Williams dazzle as Spain overcome France

AGENCIES @ Stuttgart

SPAIN starlets Lamine Yamal and Nico Williams dazzled as La Roja beat France 5-4 in a thriller in Stuttgart on Thursday, to set up a Nations League final with Portugal. Yamal bagged a brace while Williams scored and provided an assist as the two wingers cut France's makeshift defence to ribbons.

Mikel Merino and Pedri were also on the scoresheet for the Euro 2024 champions.

Kylian Mbappe netted a second-half penalty, but Spain were 5-1 up and cruising, before Les Bleus suddenly woke up as their opponents took their foot off the pedal. France's three late goals — a Rayan Cherki screamer, a Spain own goal and a stoppage time strike from Randal Kolo Muani — were not enough.

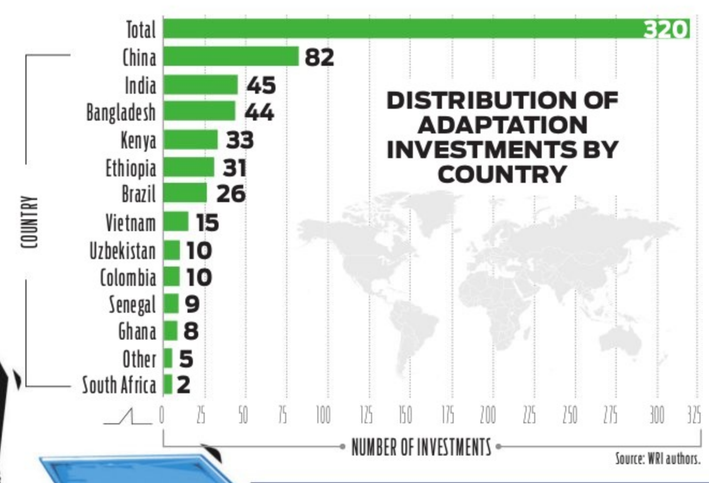
CLIMATE ADAPTATION INVESTMENTS YIELDING 10-FOLD RETURNS

International public adaptation finance flows are rising, but there remains a huge gap between what is needed and what is being delivered. As per the United Nations Environment Programme Adaptation Gap Report, the finance flow increased from $22 billion in 2021 to $28 billion in 2022



KEY TAKEAWAYS

1. Every $1 invested in adaptation generates more than $10 in benefits over ten years
2. Adaptation delivers impressive average returns of 27% — and that is very likely an underestimate because only 8% of projects assessed all the benefits (avoided losses from impacts, economic, and social/environmental)
3. Adaptation pays off even when disaster doesn't strike. WRI's research found over 50% of monetised benefits from adaptation investments can occur even without climate shocks
4. Adaptation investments often cut carbon emissions. Nearly 50% of adaptation investments reviewed in WRI's new study also cut carbon emissions. In some cases, emission reductions alone rival or exceed the value of avoided losses, especially when using nature-based solutions and climate-smart agriculture

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @ Chennai

AS climate hazards like floods and wildfires intensify and global financial resources tighten, a latest study by the World Resources Institute (WRI) provides evidence that climate adaptation investments generate value. A first-of-its-kind Adaptation Triple Dividend of Resilience (AdapTDR) database analyses 320 projects across 12 countries from 2006 to 2024, with a purse of $133 billion, finding that each dollar invested yields 10.4 dollars in benefits over 10 years, with total returns exceeding $1.4 trillion and an average economic internal rate of return (EIRR) of 27 per cent.

India, with 39 projects averaging $588.28 million each, contributes significantly to this dataset, demonstrating returns in agriculture, water, and infrastructure sectors.

The study's methodology evaluated projects approved by multilateral development banks (MDBs) and other development finance institutions (DFIs), focusing on agriculture, health, infrastructure, and water. Data collection sourced public project appraisal documents (PADs) from the World Bank, Asian Development Bank (ADB), and Green Climate Fund.

The AdapTDR database captures objectives, costs, benefits, net present values (NPVs), and EIRRs, using cost-benefit analysis (CBA) and the triple dividend framework, which measures avoided losses, induced economic benefits, and social-environmental benefits. The sample includes 12 countries — Bangladesh, Brazil, China, Colombia, Ethiopia, Ghana, India, Kenya, Senegal, South Africa, Uzbekistan, and Vietnam — representing 48 pc of the global population.

In India, the Odisha Integrated Irrigation Project for Climate Resilient Agriculture, costing $235.54 million, with benefits expected to spread over 26 years operates over 26 years, enhancing agricultural intensification and diversification. Its economic net present value (ENPV) ranges from $132 million to $241 million, with an EIRR of between 10.8 pc and 14.2 pc. The project reaches 72 pc of beneficiaries through improved water management and climate-smart practices, reducing greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, as per the World Bank.

The Tamil Nadu Climate Resilient Urban Development Project, a $300 million investment, aims to strengthen urban management, specifically increasing access to and coverage of urban water and sanitation facilities in urban areas across the state. It delivers all three dividends. First, there are avoided losses due to prevented health issues (such as diarrhoea) and improved health conditions. Second, it also leads to greater cash revenue for urban local bodies, due to improved metering and billing, tax restructuring, and more water and sewage connections. The project integrates climate resilience into urban planning and water and sewage management and is expected to enhance public finance management systems within the ULBs. Third, it improves water supply and sanitation facilities and reduces the cost of water collection for urban populations. The project estimates emissions reductions of 6.8 million tCO_2eq during its economic lifetime.

The Meghalaya Community-led Landscapes Management Project, a $ 60 million initiative, records an EIRR of 38.1 pc over 20 years, with an NPV of $46.12 million. It increases crop productivity by 10 pc and sequesters 3.5 million tCO_2eq, with 30 pc adaptation and 70 pc mitigation co-benefits, as per ADB data. The Andhra Pradesh Health Systems Strengthening Project, costing $3.44 billion with a $328 million World Bank loan, achieves an EIRR of 26 pc. It prevents 2,89,000 disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) by boosting health service capacity, with benefits valued across all three dividends.

"One of our most striking findings is that adaptation projects aren't just paying off when disasters happen — they generate value every day through more jobs, better health, and stronger local economies," said Carter Brandon, Senior Fellow, WRI. These projects align with India's economic diversity, with agriculture projects averaging an EIRR of 27.26 pc and transport, with 39 projects, reaching 27.29 pc, as seen in urban connectivity initiatives.

Globally, China's Hubei Yichang Rural Green Development Project, achieves an EIRR of 17.8 pc. The project is expected to yield a triple dividend, with substantial induced economic benefits, including reduced water loss due to efficient irrigation systems — amounting to $164.50 million in savings—and increased agricultural productivity valued at $3.30 billion. The project could also help avoid losses from increased climate risks by reducing flood losses amounting to $0.24 million and generate social and environmental benefits by improving rural sanitation and waste management systems and reducing GHGs.

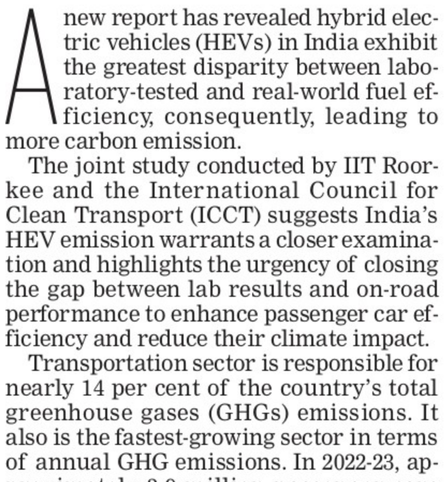
Kenya's $1.34 billion Social and Economic Inclusion Project achieves a 26 pc EIRR, focusing on health and drought resilience, while Brazil's $73.3 million Fortaleza Sustainable Urban Development Project yields a 32 pc EIRR through urban upgrades. "This research has pried open the lid on what resilience is truly worth — and even that first glimpse is staggering," said Sam Mugume Koojo, co-chair of the Coalition of Finance Ministers for Climate Action from Uganda.

Sectoral trends show health projects, like India's Andhra Pradesh initiative, and disaster risk management, such as Bangladesh's $129 million Weather and Climate Services Regional Project with a 75.1 pc EIRR, leading with returns above 70 pc due to life-saving benefits, as per World Bank data. Nearly half of all projects reduce GHG emissions, with strong examples in energy, forestry, and agriculture, the WRI study reveals. Water projects, averaging 18.25 pc EIRR, lag due to low valuation of avoided losses, a pattern in India's water supply projects.

"This evidence gives leaders and non-state actors exactly what they need heading into COP30: a clear economic case for scaling adaptation," said Dan Ioschpe, Climate High-Level Champion for COP30.

"Belém must become a turning point – mainstreaming resilience into national and local priorities and unlocking the full potential of non-state actors' leadership," he added.

The report highlights the 'second dividend,' which refers to the economic value added by these projects — such as higher output, more jobs, increased productivity and stronger cash flow. This kind of value creation can make projects more attractive and bankable for private sector investors. Second, this added economic value can help governments, especially those with stronger credit ratings, to issue bonds that attract private capital. Third, almost half the adaptation projects in our study also reduce carbon emissions –Carter Brandon, senior fellow, WRI



Hybrid electric car emission reduction needs scrutiny, says IIT-ICCT report

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

A new report has revealed hybrid electric vehicles (HEVs) in India exhibit the greatest disparity between laboratory-tested and real-world fuel efficiency, consequently, leading to more carbon emission.

The joint study conducted by IIT Roorkee and the International Council for Clean Transport (ICCT) suggests India's HEV emission warrants a closer examination and highlights the urgency of closing the gap between lab results and on-road performance to enhance passenger car efficiency and reduce their climate impact.

Transportation sector is responsible for nearly 14 per cent of the country's total greenhouse gases (GHGs) emissions. It also is the fastest-growing sector in terms of annual GHG emissions. In 2022-23, approximately 3.9 million passenger cars were sold in India, making it the third-largest passenger vehicle market after China and the United States. The battery electric vehicles (BEV) sales share in the country stood at 2 pc but is fast gaining traction as government policy aggressively promotes it. At COP26, India committed to achieve net zero by 2070 and the Centre has reaffirmed the climate goal from time to time.

Reality Check for India's Transport Emissions

The study, titled 'Review of Greenhouse Gas Life-Cycle Assessments of Passenger Cars in India,' indicates that the discrepancy in emission data for real-world adjustments is most significant for HEVs, followed by internal combustion engine vehicles (ICEVs) and lowest in BEVs.

Its findings show that the mean values of energy consumption adjustment factors for HEVs range from 1.27 to 1.50, whereas ICEVs fall between 1.24 and 1.34. For BEVs, the adjustment factor range is between 1.34 and 1.46. Nevertheless, the study demonstrates that BEVs consistently outperform both ICEVs and HEVs regarding life-cycle GHG emissions. Specifically, BEVs in India emit up to 38 pc less CO_2e per km than ICEVs in the passenger car segment.

In the sedan category, the mean test-cycle energy consumption value for BEV is in the range of 0.5-0.6 MJ/km (megajoules per kilometer), whereas ICE is in the range of 1.7-2.1 MJ/km and HEV is in the range of 1.1-1.3 MJ/km. MJ/km is a unit of measurement for energy consumption or efficiency.

Similarly, under the SUV section, the mean test-cycle energy consumption value of BEV is in the range of 0.3-1.0 MJ/km against the values of 1.7-2.0 MJ/km and 1.2-1.3 MJ/km for ICE and HEV segments respectively. Besides, there is a significant potential for emission reduction if India's power grid shifts towards cleaner or renewable energy sources, the report points out. Coal power predominates India's energy grid, accounting for over 70 pc of total energy production. Experts emphasise that more rapid adoption of BEVs can significantly diminish the environmental impact of greenhouse gas emissions throughout the ICEV's life cycle. "Differences in grid mix and real-world driving conditions can swing life-cycle emissions by up to 368 g CO_2e/km, which is roughly equivalent to adding the emissions of two to three petrol cars for every km driven," said Sunitha Anup, a researcher at IICT and co-author of the study.

The report further highlights the need for faster adoption of BEV passenger vehicle fleet, which is a critical step toward broader climate and sustainability goals and mitigating climate change impacts. While recommending acceleration in the adoption of BEVs and continued grid-decarbonisation efforts, it also urges policymakers to enforce real-world adjustment factors to close the gap between lab results and on-road performance. Moreover, the need for onboard fuel and energy consumption meters (OBFCMs) to improve transparency and data accuracy across all vehicle types is emphasised by the researchers.

20 years on, Kadapa's pursuit of the elusive Jerdon's Courser continues

USHA PERI @ Vishakhapatnam

ONE small bird, long unseen, led to the declaration of a wildlife sanctuary, years of research, and a sustained conservation effort. The Jerdon's Courser, once thought to be extinct, was rediscovered in the YSR Kadapa district of Andhra Pradesh in 1986 after nearly a century, and that rediscovery continues to inspire fresh hope and dedicated fieldwork even today. The Jerdon's Courser is a restricted-range endemic bird found only in the Eastern Ghats of Andhra Pradesh. Designated Critically Endangered on the IUCN Red List, it inhabits sparse scrub forests with open patches of ground and is currently known only from the Sri Lankamalleswara and Sri Penusila Narasimha wildlife sanctuaries.

Nearly two decades have passed since the last confirmed sighting in 2004 in the Sri Lankamalleswara wildlife sanctuary. Yet, the Andhra Pradesh Forest department believes the critically endangered bird may still be hiding in the scrub forests of Kadapa, and efforts to trace it have intensified in recent months.

Kadapa DFO Vineet Kumar inspecting installation of camera traps in Sri Lankamalleswara wildlife sanctuary

Kadapa district forest officer Vineet Kumar explained that the department has deployed nearly 40 camera traps in the sanctuary, especially across the foothill regions of Siddavatam, Badvel, and Proddatur forest ranges. "These traps are equipped with both motion and infrared sensors to capture images of the nocturnal species. Along with that, we use sand strips to track bird footprints and place dung to attract insects, which may, in turn, attract the bird," he said.

Jerdon's Courser (Rhinoptilus bitorquatus), first recorded by British surgeon Dr Thomas C Jerdon in 1848, was presumed extinct through much of the 20th century. Its dramatic rediscovery in 1986 near Reddipalli village prompted the creation of the Sri Lankamalleswara wildlife sanctuary in 1998. Despite its elusive nature, the rediscovery proved the species still existed and sparked long-term conservation efforts.

"Recently, we started using two audio moth devices to record bird calls during the night. These sound recorders are helping us monitor vocal activity in the area," Vineet Kumar said. However, that audio confirmations remain challenging as some local birds are known to mimic the Courser's call, he admits.

A team of over 20 regular forest staff, supported by outsourcing personnel and local residents, is actively involved in tracking, maintaining monitoring devices, and protecting the bird's habitat. "Apart from the department's daily efforts, NGOs and wildlife experts have been working for several years to trace the bird through surveys, data collection, and awareness campaigns," he said.

The bird is known for its preference for scrub forest habitats with vegetation such as Carissa species (locally known as Kalivi Chettu). "In Telugu, the bird is called Kalivikodi, 'Kodi' meaning bird and 'Kalivi' referring to the shrub it is often found near," Vineet Kumar explains. "It camouflages well in these thorny bushes, making sightings rare," he points out.

Its nocturnal habits and limited scientific understanding of the bird's behaviour, nesting patterns, and movements add to the challenges of tracing. "There have been no confirmed sightings after 2004, though there were some claims in 2008 and 2009. Some people have reported hearing its call, but these have not been verified," he says.

Apart from the Lankamalleswara sanctuary, another important site under observation is the Sri Penusila Narasimha wildlife sanctuary, which lies across the Sagileru river. Both areas are part of the known historic habitat of the bird, which includes stretches along the Penna river in Kadapa, Anantapur, and Nellore districts, and the Godavari valley near Sironcha and Bhadrachalam.

DAY'S DIARY

The first Satyagraha

On this day, in 1893, MK Gandhi, a young lawyer then, was thrown off of the train's first class compartment reserved for 'whites' in Africa

FIGHT FOR INDIAN'S RIGHTS

The humiliation convinced him to fight for the rights of Indians in South Africa. He organised his first campaign of Satyagraha, or mass civil disobedience

'A SYMPTOM OF A DISEASE'

As he wrote in his autobiography, what happened to him was "only a symptom of the deep disease of colour prejudice," and he felt it was his "duty" to fight it

THE INFLUENCE

Labubu, a 'cute and creepy' plush toy has taken the world by storm, charming collectors and celebrities alike

TOYING AROUND

SHRUTI HEMACHANDRAN & MAHIMA NAGARAJU

IF you've been doom-scrolling through social media lately, chances are you've encountered the cute, yet eerie face of Labubu – the plush toy that the internet is currently hooked on. Hanging from Ananya Panday's designer bag, featured on popular K-pop star Lisa's live streams, or unboxing videos of influencers trying to get ahold of the rare one they want, it is everywhere.

"Labubu has been popular in the Far East but has now become a global phenomenon. The past two months have seen a huge surge in their demand in India," says Zohara Jamal, a popular lifestyle content creator. Ayesha Alikhan, a city-based psychologist, concurs, saying, "In Bengaluru, specifically, I've been seeing many influencers carrying these dolls. I've also seen many kids as well as middle-aged women at UB City walking around with the dolls in their bags."

Fondly called 'ugly-cute' by fans, Labubu is a collectible character designed by Hong Kong-born artist Kasing Lung in 2015. Inspired by Nordic mythology, the character was initially featured in Lung's picture book series The Monsters, where Labubu is depicted as a mischievous, elf-like creature, with a toothy grin and a playful demeanour. Later, it gained widespread popularity through a collaboration with Chinese toy company Pop Mart, which introduced the character as part of its blind box collectible series – a popular release in which each toy is sold in a sealed package.

Why the buzz?

The surprise element turns each unboxing into a mini adventure, encouraging customers to keep collecting until they finally get their hands on their favourite figurines. They're selling like hotcakes, with most stores in China completely out of stock. As Jamal explains, "A lot of people are after the rare ones. Since it's a blind surprise box – people keep buying more in the hope that they will get the rare surprise." She adds, "I have the green grape and lychee berries ones from the Monsters Exciting Macaron collection and have ordered some from the Have a Seat and Coca-Cola collections. I'm hoping I'll get the 'secret' Labubu – a rare one-in-72-piece doll."

Besides the surprise element, Indrakshi Roy, a college student, notes that people are drawn to the dolls for their 'impish and mischievous faces' but also because they are a status symbol amid a global recession. She says, "They're not a children's toy as much as they are a luxury accessory like the Nicki Minaj Barbie doll. Also, with the recession, adults are spending more on items considered 'small' luxuries, like a handbag accessory rather than on 'big' luxury purchases". Pratiksha Kataria, the Founder and Table stylist at Tablescapes by P agrees, saying, "I think it's okay if you want to get something for yourself and if you feel good about it. When I bought it in Bangkok, it wasn't priced beyond ₹3,000," adding that Asian countries like Japan, where the trend is in full swing, have taken it to the next level. "They are making clothes, shoes, bags and accessories for Labubu. It's crazy how they've made a whole industry out of this doll. In fact, in Bangkok, I saw people buying them from Pop Mart and selling them outside in black."

Where to get it?

In India, online stores like Kalakaar and Hype Fly India are making the collectibles easily accessible. However, since there is no official Pop Mart store in the country (where the toys cost USD 25-30), the Labubu collectibles in India typically range from ₹2,000 for standard blind boxes to over ₹12,000 for rare, limited-edition figures with some going up to ₹55,000.

LABUBU SMUGGLERS

The toy craze has collectors so hooked that smuggling them has become big business. Chinese customs have cracked down hard, seizing over 460 sneaky figures from travellers trying to resell these rare toys, proving just how hot the demand is! The frenzy isn't confined to China. In the UK, Pop Mart had to suspend their in-store sales of Labubu after brawls and crowd surges broke out during restocks. Ayesha Alikhan, city-based Labubu enthusiast weighs in on this, saying, "I don't understand the fighting to buy these dolls, but I do see why they would appeal to people. There's something about the teeth and the eyes. I think of 'cute aggression' when I look at these dolls."

FOR A GREENER TOMORROW

TNIE celebrates World Environment Day with sapling distribution drive for awareness

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

As the world marked World Environment Day on Thursday, TNIE celebrated by distributing saplings aimed to inspire greener living and to raise environmental awareness across communities. The campaign conducted was focused on tackling indoor and outdoor pollution alike and reinforcing the idea that environmental care is a daily responsibility.

The initiative was inaugurated by Forest, Ecology and Environment Minister Eshwar B Khandre; executive director of Kauvery Hospitals, Dr Vijayabhaskaran; deputy resident editor, TNIE, Nirad G Mudur and senior general manager-Karnataka & head marketing-Telangana, P Suresh.

Reflecting on the event, Khandre announced a major policy move. "The Karnataka government is formulating a law to mandate manufacturers and sellers of plastic bottles to buy them back for recycling- This isn't just about plastic – it's about responsibility. Since we came to power 8.5 crore saplings have been planted. Let's care for them. They are not decorative – they are our life support," he said.

Later, saplings were handed over to the BBMP Marshals and staffers from the Karnataka Forest Department.

Highlighting the dangers of unchecked urbanisation, the minister lamented the transformation of Bengaluru into a concrete jungle, with over 200 lakes disappearing. "The government alone cannot do this. Change must begin with citizens," he said.

"In 2011, Bengaluru generated 3,000 tons of waste daily. Today, that number has doubled to 6,000 tons. Water consumption has surged from 1,100 to 2,100 million litres/day. Green cover has dropped from 60 per cent in 1980s to below 3 per cent," Dr Vijayabhaskaran added.

He also stressed on its irreversibility, stating, "Tree planting and water treatment are compulsory before construction in developed nations. We can do the same." In Bengaluru, one tree serves over 15 – an urgent imbalance needing immediate correction, he highlighted.

The event ended with Dr Vijayabhaskaran reflecting on the future. "We have not inherited the earth from our ancestors – we are borrowing it from our children. Let's return it better than we found it. Every action can lead to meaningful change," he concluded.

FITBIT

SUKHASANA UTTANA HASTA ANGULI MUDRA (EASY POSE ARMS OUT FINGERS CROSSED)

This is a variation of Sukhasana (Easy Pose) with hands opened on the sides, at shoulder level, and the fingers in a hasta mudra. Every mudra has a particular purpose and moves the energy in a specific way throughout the body to create subtle physical, mental, and emotional changes. It is the foundation of yogic poses and meditation practice.

STEPS

- Sit on the mat with legs stretched before you, spine straight. Place the hands on the thighs with elbows bent. Take a few breaths here.
- Inhale, fold the right foot under the left thigh and left foot under the right thigh.
- Cross the legs at the mid shins and not at your ankles. Your pubic bone and the cross of your shins should be in one line.
- Keep your ankles flexed a little so that your feet are on their outside edges, perpendicular to the floor.
- Spread your arms at the shoulder level in a L shape. Your shoulders should not be crunching.
- Align the palms in the mudra by crossing the index and middle fingers. The index finger is placed before the middle finger. The tip of the thumb should touch the ring finger and little finger.
- Stay here, focusing on the navel. Remain for as long as the pranayama practice demands or as per the body's comfort.
- Slowly come back to Staff Pose Hands Back Variation Knees Bend and relax.

BENEFITS

- Enhances the flexibility of the lower legs, knee, and ankle joints.
- Improves finger flexibility with the alignment of the Hasta Mudra.
- Respiration is in its natural rhythm.
- Usually done with the chanting of Om or Satnam mantras.
- Practitioner can find calmness with the mudra alignment of the fingers.
- Energises the body.
- Improves concentration level.
- Conscious efforts keep the spine erect and shoulders rolled down and back.
- Avoids common occurrences like slouched or hunched back, and rounded shoulders.
- Helps students transcend to meditative mode.
- Acupuncture therapists strongly believe the effect of the palm stimulation to treat diseases and create holistic health.
- Helps achieve spiritual and emotional balance.
- Balances the Anahata (heart) Chakra.
- Included in the yoga sequence for professionals, teens, homemakers, sportspeople, and all.

LIMITATIONS

- Students with injuries to their knees, hips, lower back, hamstrings, ankle, or those who have undergone any abdominal, knee or hip surgery should take the advice of yoga experts or therapists before doing this practice.
- Practitioners with injuries at the shoulders and fingers, arthritis in the knees, hips, and feet, or having sciatica, especially senior citizens, avoid this.
- Those with a slipped disc, spinal issues, weak digestion, minor backache, or knee pain, can take support of a pillow.
- Those new to yoga, and pregnant women can sit with folded blankets, blocks or pillows.

A SENSE OF ENNUI

Vietnamese Chef Kevin & General Manager, DoubleTree by Hilton Bengaluru, Whitefield

I'M back after a three-week sabbatical, refreshed and raring to go. I find myself at a crossroads in my career and life, as all the things that previously excited me in my twenties and thirties, about being a driven lawyer and having a great work-life balance, started to bore me in my late thirties. After my kids were born, I wanted more! The courtrooms were dusty and dank, filled with sleazeballs and corruption, while the firm I was working at used me only to peddle papers and the like. No standing on the pulpit of justice and shouting out 'melord' and changing the world. It was all about money and a waiting game and I found it preposterous that the 'doyens' of justice were willing to compromise their ethics so readily. My brain raced with tumultuous thoughts and ideas, and as my fave teacher at school had told me, I had a 'turbulent soul'. My outlet was of course the performing arts and I was 'the first' in many spheres of my career. Be it a stand-up comedy films, theatre or using humour to address serious issues in the corporate training space. Now I am filled with a sense of ennui once again. It is time for reinvention or 'quietus'.

Since I'm not ready for 'quietus' quite yet, I did the next best thing. I took off for a quick break to Thailand, where I spent my days lounging, drinking, eating and being massaged by very sweet Thai ladies who would often ask me questions in their sing-song voices which promptly put me to sleep! We were in a beautiful resort by the beach, so I had no wish to be with other beach-combers on crowded 'touristy' beaches, throng crowded by-lanes, hop into seedy massage parlours or buy more cheap Chinese goods! Instead, I spent my days at the glorious resort, eating excellent food, drinking fabulous mai-tais, swimming, listening to Thai music (or English songs sung with Thai accents) and rejuvenating my soul. The trip didn't involve a long flight, but the long immigration lines and tacky airport at Phuket were disappointing. Coming back home to my 'ooru' with exceptional service, a five-minute procedure to enter my own country felt like heaven. India has come into her own and now more than ever, I am proud to be an Indian.

I came back to an invitation awaiting me from Chef Kevin who was showcasing his culinary skills at a very exclusive pop-up at the DoubleTree by Hilton Bengaluru Whitefield. Though the trek was long and arduous, the thought of trying out this young and experimental chef's cuisine was too tempting not to follow up. His credentials were impressive as he worked in three Michelin-starred restaurants on his culinary journey. We weren't disappointed as his signature dish 'Banh-Xeo' a beloved Vietnamese rice pancake hit all the sweet spots.

Let no one doubt my allegiance to 'namma-ooru'. I was ecstatic when we ultimately claimed the IPL crown after 18 humiliating years of failing to do so. I was ready to adopt the young Virat Kohli (nothing much else I could do), but the aftermath that followed really cut me to the quick. A clarion call from the 'white shoe brigade' to celebrate resulted in the death of innocents and the injury of many. I was horrified to see the large number of dead and injured at the hospital nearby.

Accept people as they are, but place them where they belong.

UNDERSTAND THE WEIGHT LOSS PLATEAU

SUSTAINED weight loss is widely acknowledged as a difficult journey. While diets and workouts constantly promise fast results, the reality is that successful weight loss involves a complex mix of dietary changes, increased physical activity, and consistent behavioural effort. After an encouraging initial drop in weight, many individuals find themselves stuck in a phase where progress stalls, which is known as a weight loss plateau.

These plateaus are incredibly common, affecting up to 85 per cent of people trying to lose weight. Initially, a calorie deficit method— burning more calories than consumed — leads to weight loss. However, as the body adapts to this deficit, physiological changes begin to resist further fat loss. Metabolic rate slows, fat oxidation decreases, and hunger-regulating hormones shift, often increasing appetite. These biological defences evolved to protect against starvation, make long-term weight reduction challenging.

Psychologically, the sudden halt in progress can be demoralising. Many become discouraged, leading to what is commonly referred to as yo-yo dieting, hitting a plateau, regaining weight, and repeating the process. Unrealistic expectations, based on the belief that weight loss is a steady, linear journey, add to the frustration.

Plateaus are not only biological but also behavioural. Individuals may unconsciously consume more calories or reduce their physical activity. This can result from behavioural fatigue, environmental cues, or less attention to portion sizes and food choices. Keeping track of food, exercise, and daily habits help identify subtle shifts. Various diets, whether low-carb, keto, low-fat, DASH, or Mediterranean, aim to achieve a calorie deficit. Physical activity helps to increase energy expenditure which is the most effective approach one can follow always. To keep up progress and push past plateaus, it is key to reassess dietary habits and exercise regularly, grasping that weight loss is a dynamic, adaptive job.

How to come out of a weight loss plateau

- Reassess diet and activity

Minor shifts in eating or activity habits can impact weight. Patients may unintentionally consume more calories. Rechecking food intake and exercise routines using food diaries and activity logs helps uncover these patterns.

- Focus on muscles and metabolism

Weight loss can lead to fatigue and lean mass loss, slowing metabolism. A short "recovery phase" with slightly increased calories and 1.2-1.5 g protein per kg of your body weight every day can restore energy, preserve muscle, and balance hormones. Fibre-rich foods also help curb hunger and promote satiety.

- Increase physical activity

Exercise, especially resistance training, helps build muscle, boosts resting energy expenditure, improves insulin reactivity. Increasing the frequency, or duration of workouts and everyday movement (NEAT) like walking, taking the stairs can help restart weight loss. Aim for at least 200 minutes/week of moderate-intensity activity, including both aerobic and strength training.

- Leverage social strategies

Behavioural support like regular follow-ups, motivational interviewing, goal setting, and addressing barriers are crucial. Tools like smartwatches, food scales, fitness apps, and CBT-based programmes can keep patients on track and engaged.

- Realise non-scale victories

Celebrate improvements in energy, sleep, body measurements, joint pain, or reduced medication use. These often signal better health, during plateau.

Breaking through a weight loss plateau often requires a combination of renewed dietary focus, enhanced physical activity, behavioural tools, and sometimes medical therapies.

MAADEVA

Director: Naveen Reddy

Cast: Vinod Prabhakar, Sonal Monteiro, Shruti, Srinagar Kitty, Chaithra Rao, Achyuth Kumar, Sumanth, and Cockroach Suddhi

A SILENT BUT RAGING PORTRAIT OF A HANGMAN'S SOLITUDE

A SHARADHAA

FROM the very first frame, Maadeva makes one thing clear: this is not a film that is chasing spectacle. It avoids sensationalism and familiar tropes, offering instead a haunting character study of a man whose very profession is death. Vinod Prabhakar, breaking from his action-hero image, brings eerie stillness to the titular role. Maadeva is no hero, nor villain—he is a ghost of a man, numb to the finality he delivers.

Set in the 1980s, Maadeva is introduced not through drama but through detachment. He walks straight, never flinches, doesn't cry or laugh, and barely speaks. The gallows is his home. His only company—Karunakar (Achyuth Kumar), a loco pilot, and Nandish (Sumanth)—seem to reflect his hollow existence. Even the honk of an ice candy cart unsettles him—a minor sound that reveals buried trauma. As the jailer later notes, Maadeva's emotionlessness isn't cruelty—it's survival.

But this bleak portrait begins to fracture when Parvathi (Sonal Monteiro) enters—a girl from the same vicinity, desperate to meet her estranged mother Subhadra (Chaitra Rao). Parvathi believes Maadeva holds the key. To her, he's a ruthless executioner. Yet over time, her presence begins to thaw him. The first crack appears in a beautifully underplayed moment: Maadeva smiles faintly in front of a mirror after Parvathi hugs him. That flicker of humanity, without any dialogue, is more affecting than a monologue.

Credit to the writing for resisting easy redemption arcs. Karunakar, in a small but weighty role and one of the few people Maadeva is close to, frames him not as a monster but as a man with a tortured past. Childhood trauma, social isolation, and an imposed identity have carved Maadeva into someone more ghost than man. He's not just a hangman—he's a prisoner of memory.

While the film anchors itself around Maadeva's awakening, it also explores vengeance. Samudhra (Srinagar Kitty) simmers with fury over his brother's unexplained death, while Kamalakshi (Shruthi), a manipulative matriarch, fights to free her jailed son. Shruthi's performance is sharp, and her strength lies not in violence but in cunning, making her quietly dangerous. It's interesting how some directors frame female actors differently—and Shruthi owns the spotlight. Sonal Monteiro, in a de-glam role, brings grace and rawness to Parvathi, around whom Maadeva's emotional arc revolves.

What elevates Vinod Prabhakar's performance is how he sheds his action-hero skin and inhabits the role of a broken man. His walk, stillness, and silence speak more than words. His rage simmers only when needed; his expressions carry quiet intensity.

Maadeva also refuses to turn its protagonist into a saviour or martyr. Even as rival families clash and Parvathi emerges as a symbol of compassion, Maadeva never fully escapes who he is. He marries, yes. He finds slivers of happiness. But the shadow of the gallows never leaves.

RATING 3/5

Director Naveen Reddy B makes a bold choice by crafting a protagonist without cinematic flair or speeches. This is Vinod Prabhakar's most restrained performance yet. Stripped of bravado, he lets silence speak. The supporting cast is given space to matter too—whether it's the silent friends, prison staff, or rival factions.

Malashree's presence in one episode adds commercial gravity—she emerges as a surprising protector amid the rising chaos. A few bumps remain—CG shots in the train sequence and the climax action feel a tad artificial—but they don't dilute the film's emotional honesty.

Cinematographer Balakrishna Thota frames Maadeva's world with precision, often in tight shots that mirror his emotional suffocation. Praddyottan's music deepens the mood. Silence is used unsettlingly well, while the track "Abbalagere" hits hardest when its lyrics mirror Maadeva's internal conflict. The love track "Yedeli Tangaali" adds melodic tenderness.

Though set in the 1980s, the period serves more as texture than theme.

What lingers is the quiet ache of a man stripped of joy, inching toward something like life.

Maadeva doesn't scream for your attention—it haunts you. It asks you to sit with the discomfort of a man who lives with death not just as a job, but as a state of being. South Indian cinema has rarely explored the psychological weight of a hangman. Maadeva joins a short list of films that dare to do so. Others may have shown generational trauma, but few have examined the executioner's soul like this one.

For those willing to look into the eyes of death and still see the flicker of a man within, Maadeva offers something rare—a silent, smouldering portrait of a hangman's solitude.

Sees Kaddi:

A pencil's stroke through scribbled lives, sharpened truths, and erased doubts

A SHARADHAA

RATHAN GANGADHAR'S Sees Kaddi is like a handwritten letter in a digital world—simple on the surface, but full of heart, questions, and quiet rebellion. At once ambitious and personal, deeply local yet strikingly universal. It feels heavy, not because of its length, but because it refuses to entertain without asking you to feel, think, and engage.

Sees Kaddi, which translates as Pencil in English, begins with a lighthearted disclaimer: "No animals or birds were harmed... but many pencils were sacrificed." It sounds playful, but it's more than a joke. That pencil becomes the film's soul. A pencil can write, erase, break, and still be sharpened again. In Sees Kaddi, it becomes a symbol of survival, struggle, creativity—and quiet dignity. But does this deep symbolism lift the film or weigh it down?

Let's start with what works—and works deeply. The film frames itself through Vikram (Cithin Appaiah), a troubled writer who imagines himself as King Vikrama. In his mind, he talks to a security guard who becomes a Bethaala-like figure (B.S. Ramamurthy). Their conversations are philosophical and strange—sometimes heavy—but they become the base for a larger story. The question underneath it all: Can stories help us find ourselves? Can writing name those whom history ignores?

From there, we follow four beautifully drawn stories: A nameless girl (Manvi Belgar), who wants to be a classical singer, finds her voice through a deaf and mute teacher (Sowmya Jaganmurthy). A schoolboy, Raveesh (Pratham Raje Urs), loses a calligraphy contest and feels broken—not by the result, but by crushed hope. He is gently guided by his teacher.

A writer, Fareed (Sanjay Gowda), meets Manji, a young girl working two jobs to care for her bedridden father, and her quiet strength changes his path. Finally, Toufiq (Sreshth Juptimath), a young boy who works at a cinema, teaches a failed filmmaker, Vicky (Mahendra Gowda), how to see films again—with heart.

RATING 3/5

Each of these characters is writing their own story—with literal pencils, or with action, song, or memory. But can a pencil rewrite lives? The film says yes—though at times, that optimism feels a little too perfect.

Visually, the film is a treat. Suneil Narasimhamurthy's cinematography finds beauty in simple places—sunlight on old walls, a pencil sketch in progress. Editor Anirudh Harshavardhan lets the film move slowly, giving it time to breathe. But it does test your patience. It doesn't allow you to watch casually—it asks you to slow down and think.

KC Balasarangan's music feels like you're flipping through the pages of a sketchbook while listening. The songs are rooted. The lyrics—by Mahesh NC, Mahendra Gowda, Pratap Bhatt, and Anujaya S Kumtakar—feel like truths spoken straight from the soil. The sync sound and design by Satyamurthy and Hanosh Khan keep everything grounded and natural.

The screenplay—by Akarsha Kamala, Akshara Bharadwaj, Sharath K. Parvathwani, Jayanth Venkat, and Mahendra Gowda—is full of ideas. But sometimes, it feels too full. Characters don't always speak like real people. Children talk like philosophers. Adults become symbols. The episodes start to feel more like a lesson than a lived experience.

Still, the pencil stays with us—especially when Raveesh holds his pen like it's hope itself. Toufiq refuses to pay for films unless they truly move him—he watches with his heart, not just his eyes. The young singer doesn't find her name on paper, but in her talent. The pencil might be small and easy to break—but it insists on being used. Just like them.

But does every story need a moral? Must every pencil line draw a lesson?

And yet—that might be Sees Kaddi's most special quality. It's not about big fights or loud endings. It simmers. It draws its world not in ink, but in graphite. Soft. Uncertain. Real.

In the end, a radio voice—gentle, warm—closes the film like a bedtime story. That way, Sees Kaddi is an earnest effort, sometimes a bit too eager to teach. But it believes in each of its stories, in second chances, in the everyday strength of ordinary people. It believes that failure isn't the end—it's just a rough draft. That even a broken pencil can still write.

This is a film you may question, even argue with—but one you'll carry with you. Not because it shouts, but because it scribbles—gently, until something sticks. Ultimately, Sees Kaddi draws its truths in pencil—and waits for you to see them.Rathan Gangadhar's

Upendra's Bhargava officially commences, Arpit Ranka joins the cast

CE FEATURES

BHARGAVA, marking the collaboration of Real Star Upendra and director Naganna, officially began its journey with a simple muhurath on Friday. Backed by producer KP Surrappa Babu, the film will enter production on June 23.

Upendra, who is currently juggling multiple projects, including Coolie and his Telugu ventures, will soon join the sets of Bhargava. Adding freshness to this action-packed entertainer is Ankita Amar, who plays the female lead and shares screen space with Upendra for the first time.

In a recent addition to the cast, actor Arpit Ranka—known for his presence in multiple languages and currently playing the antagonist in the upcoming fantasy drama Kannappa—has been roped in to play the main villain in Bhargava. He had previously appeared in a brief role in Chiranjeevi Sarja starrer Ajith, but this marks his first full-fledged negative role in Kannada, where he will face off against Upendra.

The film brings together a seasoned technical team, with Arjun Janya composing the music and Rajaratnam handling the cinematography. Veteran actors Rangayana Raghu and Avinash are also part of the ensemble.

The film, backed by Surappa Babu, stars Ankita Amar as the female lead
